ADDITIONAL FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE NORTH BRITON.

Departure of the Neapolitan Exiles for New-York.

M. BELLY GOES TO NICARAGUA.

Items of Interest and Importance.

The steamship North Briton, from Liverpool, Feb. 23, arrived at Portland at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. She reports having been detained by head winds.

Passed the Canada, from Boston, for Halifax and Liverpool, on Thursday, and the City of Manchester, from New-York, for Liverpool, a few days ago.

The North Briton's mails were forwarded by the morning train via Boston and reached this City at an early hour this morning. A summary of her news will be found below.

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the House of Lords on the 21st, Lord DERBY appealed to Lord GREY to postpone his pending motion in regard to the Ionian Islands. He said Mr. GLADSTONE was en route for England, and he would undertake, if the motion was postponed for a fortnight, that no act which the Ionian Parliament might pass, should be ratified until the House had an opportunity of discussing any motion, that might be presented.

Lord GREY assented, and the subject was postponed.

In the House of Commons Mr. MAGUIRE gave notice that he should shortly call attention to the recent arrests in Ireland.

Mr. WALPOLE, Secretary of the Home Department, introduced a bill adjusting the vexed question of Church rates, by making payments voluntary, instead of compulsory. The bill was favorably received, and read a first time.

The correspondence in the Charles et Georges affair is published.

Mr. FREKE BELLY left Southampton 17th February, in the steamer Parana, for Nicaragua in order to take possession of the concession of the Canal in the presence of two Presidents, MARTINEZ and MORA, who are to meet for the purpose on the 27th of March at Rivas. Mr. BELLY is accompanied by a Staff of thirty-three persons, including his Secretary. Gen. M. LAVASSEUR, formerly French Minister to Mexico, sundry other officials, and a strong corps of Engineers.

The London Times, in noticing the departure, says it will probably cause some surprise in New-York, and is not likely to be looked upon with indifference at Washington. It thinks the English capitalists will be very chary of investing in the enterprise.

Berlin journals speak of a projected marriage between the Prince of Wales and the Princess ALEXANDRINA, daughter of Prince ALBERT, of Prussia.

FRANCE.

The tone of the Paris correspondence continues warlike. The Daily News correspondent says on the 20th Prince NAPOLEON received an immense deputation of Italian residents. The Prince made a speech on Italian affairs, and, though using cautious phraseology, the deputation saw in it a confirmation of their most ardent wishes. The same writer says the tactics of the Government are to blow alternately hot and cold on the question of peace or war.

There is, however, not a moment's relaxation in the preparations for war.

The French Minister of War had contracted for ten millions of rations of dried vegetables.

A second division of troops was under orders to march from Algiers to France.

It was rumored that General LAMORICIERE had offered his services to the Emperor in case of hostilities.

All the active battalions at Paris are to be increased, making each infantry regiment 1,500 strong.

Prince NAPOLEON, it is reported, is incessantly instigating the Emperor to war.

The purchase of horses was going on actively. The stables and large temporary sheds at Vincennes are all crowded.

Gun-boats, on a new plan, are said to be ordered to be constructed.

A large military forage magazine at Vincennes had been burned, entailing a loss of 20,000 francs.

According to the Paris correspondent of the Times, the great instigator of war is Prince NAPOLEON, and his influence with the Emperor is at present extraordinary. The cool reception given by the Senate to the proposal for the increase of the Prince's income was intended as a rebuke to him for indulging in such eager hoss for war. The Prince's influence was givnig grea umbrage to ministers, etc.

The Paris correspondent of the Herald again remarks that warlike preparations still continue.

The manifestation in favor of peace which was being prepared by the Chamber of Commerce has, it is said, been regularly u brked by a threatening paragraph in the Patrie.

A treaty between France and Russia was again spoken of.

It is stated that the preliminary meeting of the Conference was held at the Foreign Office on the 18th, and that Lord COWLEY started immediately after.

The rumor of Count WALEWSKI's resignation continued to gain ground.

Another pamphlet, by M. DE LA GUERRONIERE, had appeared. The question it treats of is the revision of treaties.

SPAIN.

The Spanish Chamber of Deputies had granted extraordinary credits for strengthening the fortifications at Mahon, Ferrol and other places.

The Italian exiles left Cadiz on the 19th on board an American frigate, (? ship,) name not mentioned.

One hundred Deputies in the Cortes had declared in favor of free trade in corn and cotton.

The English Consul at Tangiers was negotiating a treaty of peace between Spain and Morocco.

PORTUGAL.

A concordat with Rome was under discussion in secret sittings of the Chamber of Deputies.

ITALY.

The Duchess of PARMA has signed a treaty with Austria, authorizing the latter Power to occupy all the forts in her dominions with troops in case of hostilities.

Trade in Milan was in complete stagnation.

Large numbers of deserters from the Austrian army had crossed the Piedmontese frontiers.

It is asserted that official dispatches from Cardinal ANTONELLI to the Cabinet of Vienna, declare that no reception can be accorded to any representations from foreign Governments, at all referring to the domestic Government of the States of the Church.

The Sardinian Senate had adopted a bill for a loan of fifty millions of francs, by a vote of 59 to 7.

It was reported that the Pope intended to publish a manifesto refuting certain statements in regard to Rome, contained in the late pamphlet entitled "NAPOLEON III. and Italy."

An extraordinary rumor was circulating in Turin. It was said that King VICTOR EMANUEL had been privately married, and wished to be separated from his wife.

It is declared that the journey to Rome of the Marquis ALVIERI was for the purpose of obtaining the divorce, and that the Sardinian Minister is concluding negotiations with the Apostolic Court.

Turin letters say the chances in favor of peace were decidedly on the increase.

AUSTRIA.

Austria is strongly preparing for the defence of her Italian possessions. The garrison at Vienna was fully prepared to march at short notice.

There was great activity in the arsenal at Venice, where hospitals and army bakeries were established.

Gun-boats have been placed at the mouth of the river Po, and the garrison of Ferrara strengthened.

PRUSSIA.

The Prussian Government had issued a circular alluding to the joint efforts of England and Prussia to preserve peace, and expressing the conviction that Austria will join in the endeavor for an amicable solution of the difficulties; but declaring that while reserving her action as a European Power, she will nevertheless fulfill her duties as a member of the German Confederacy.

RUSSIA.

It was reported that Russia had declared her determination to resist any attempt to prevent the union of the Principalities by force.

INDIA.

The Bombay mail of Jan. 25 had reached England. The details of the news state that Lord CANNING had given a greater extension of the amnesty, and interdicted any execution without his approval.

Public notice had been given that Oude and Rohilcund are again open to European families.

Lord CLYDE had applied for authority to pursue the rebels to Nepaul. He was to return to England in February.

An engagement between the Rohillas and a British force at Rissode was disastrous to the latter. Several officers and a number of men were killed.

Mr. LATTA has sued Abel Shank in the United States Court at Cincinnati for infringement of his patent for the construction of steam fire-engines. He claims $20,000 damages.

INTERESTING FROM WASHINGTON.

Curious Chapter of Secret History---Jefferson Fillibustering After Cuba.

Adjournment of the Supreme Court—Backwardness of Business—The Post-Office Department.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 11.

A highly-interesting letter from Commodore CHARLES STEWART was to-day handed to President BUCHANAN, disclosing an item of secret history never before divulged. President JEFFERSON'S gun-boat Navy, which was the subject of much ridicule, was ostensibly built for the protection of our sea coast. One hundred and eighty of these boats were sent southward. Commodore STEWART now makes known the fact that these boats were built for the special purpose of taking possession of Cuba, but before the plans of Mr. JEFFERSON were perfected our relations with England became threatening, and the project was postponed, and never afterwards revived. It is believed that this precedent set by President JEFFERSON in fillibustering will have some influence in directing the future policy of Mr. BUCHANAN, should Mr. PIERSON fail in his efforts to make a purchase of Cuba.

The Supreme Court will adjourn on Saturday, having cleared less than one-third of the calendar at this term. This fact, together with former experience, demonstrates conclusively that unless the Judges are relieved from circuit duty, and the Court made stationary, so that the increasing business can be disposed of before it reaches more formidable proportions, justice will be substantially denied by the delay that must necessarily ensue in trying causes. Q.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 11.

The Hon. R. H. GILLETT, long connected with the Law Department of the Government, has published an argument to show that the revenues of the Post-office establishment can be applied after June next to pay for transporting the mail and other expenses of the Department notwithstanding the failure of the Post-office Appropriation bill.

General DENVER proposes to return to California by the next steamer, and this involves his resignation as Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

The Supreme Court to-day announced decisions in seventeen cases, but did not deliver the opinions. The Court then adjourned until December next, having cleared less than half the calendar.

The trial of the Hon. DANIEL E. SICKLES will not probably take place until the week after next, the Grand Jury not being inclined to give his case precedence over others.

A statement made up at the Treasury Department shows that the circulation of the banks throughout the country, in 1856, was nearly two hundred and fifteen millions; in 1857, one hundred and fifty millions, and in 1858, one hundred and ninety-three millions and a third.

Hudson River Navigation.

ROUDOUT, Friday, March 11.

The steamer Norwich arrived here this morning from New-York City. She encountered large quantities of heavy ice between here and Poughkeepsie. The ice is moving with each tide. At the Elbow and at Esopus Meadows it is piled up very thick, making it very difficult for the steamers to work their way through. It will be several days before the river will be navigable at this place unless a warm change in the weather takes place.

Wheat Shipments.

OSWEGO, Friday, March 11.

The Commercial Times' annual statement of trade and commerce, published this afternoon, shows, reducing flour to wheat, that the total movement of grain over Lake Ontario in 1858 was 21,800,000 bushels, against 18,000,000 bushels in 1857. The total shipments from the Lake regions by various routes eastward in 1858 were 53,400,000 bushels, against 45,400,000 bushels in 1857.

Dudley Observatory Again—Letter from Mrs. Blandina Dudley.

From the Albany Atlas and Argus.

GENTLEMEN: My attention has been called to a statement published in the Evening Journal of the 8th inst., that the Rev. Dr. ROGERS, at the close of a course of lectures delivered by Professor MITCHEL, in this city, stated to a large audience that a few hours previously, in company with Professor MITCHEL, he had made a call of courtesy upon me, and that during the visit I extended a pressing request to Professor MITCHEL that he would gratify the wishes of the citizens of Albany, and my own, by assuming the professional supervision of the Dudley Observatory.

Learning that the statement referred to has given rise to false impressions, I desire to say that Dr. ROGERS and Professor MITCHEL called upon me on the afternoon of the 7th instant, and that Professor MITCHEL, without apprising me that he differed from my friends and from my well-known views respecting the unfortunate controversy in which the Observatory is involved, stated that he was about to take charge of the Observatory and relieve it from its embarrassments. Not suspecting that any publicity or importance would be given to a remark made during a social visit of such gentlemen, and not intending to express more than mere civility to a visitor required, I replied that I was glad to hear that such was the case.

The majority of the Trustees of the Dudley Observatory did not consult me concerning the removal of Dr. GOULD nor the appointment of Professor MITCHEL, and I did not intend, in the interview referred to, to approve of their action in this or any other respect, nor that my words should be used in any way before the public.

I am pained at the necessity of correcting and explaining a private conversation which took place at my own residence, and which has been repeated before an audience and published without my consent.

ALBANY, March 10, 1859.

AFFAIRS AT ALBANY.

The Appropriation Bill—Stringent Economy Insisted On—No Respect for Persons or Politics—The Charities badly Damaged by their Factious Friends—All-night Session of the Assembly—The Contested Seat—The Times Pronounced an Oracle, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Friday, March 11, 1859.

Mr. CONKLING has covered himself with fame and curses. His Appropriation bill, which cuts off $1,250 from the Governor's allowance for house rent, cuts down the expenses of almost every State office, lops off scores of old withered branches that it has been the custom to hang gifts upon, and torn up innumerable suckers, has been put through the Assembly's Committee of the Whole, and ordered to a third reading. It was the special order for yesterday; was discussed all day and taken up again in the evening. There was an earnest effort to insert some further provision for the charitable institutions, and the House by a small majority ordered the more worthy, tried and useful of them to be inserted. But friends of some that had been left out were untiring in their efforts to open the bill and stick in a few more.

At 12 o'clock, midnight, the roll having been called, and 68 answering to their names—some dozen others being in the cloak-room, and refusing without a call of the House to come in—the House again went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. VAN HORN in the Chair. Everybody was nibbling, lively, good-natured, but not very dignified in attitude, perhaps. Two amendments were pending. The Speaker, taking the floor, reminded gentlemen that if this bill was not to-night sat-out it would consume the week. He had been in the House five sessions, and never had seen an Appropriation bill disposed of without sitting out the night.

Mr. SPENCER (Republican) occupied his five minutes in repeating a speech about widows and orphans which he had made every half-hour during the evening. Hammered down.

New amendments, altered by a dollar or so from the amount voted down three hours before, being disposed of, the Speaker rebuked the factious spirit of the minority—not the political minority—and urged the thinking men to short speeches, honest amendments, quick votes, and a report of this bill to the House before adjournment. Mr. DURYEA and Mr. TOMLINSON denied a factious spirit, and urged that progress be reported. The Committee refused.

Mr. GODARD, Republican, rebuked the member from New-York who had made so much complaint of delay on several occasions for his perpetual speech-making, and—being called to order by Mr. SCHOLEFIELD, he assured that gentleman that he too certainly had occupied his full share of time. The Major explained how that may have happened.

Mr. HUTCHINSON replied to some remarks about the impropriety of men uneducated to the law, quoting the law.

More amendments were voted down, concerning the salaries of State officers. At 1 o'clock Mr. SMITH, of New-York, moved that the Committee rise and report progress. Voted down. Mr. CHRISTIE said that as all the amendments that gentlemen wished to move had been offered, he hoped they would report the bill to the House. A score of amendments were roared out in opposition to the suggestion. A good deal of noise—all honest business noise, the noise of hurrying up amendments—enlivened proceedings for a quarter of an hour. Mr. Andrus, Mr. Duryea, Mr. Tomlinson, Mr. Rutherford, Mr. Spencer and Mr. Meeks pleaded each for charity. At 10 minutes to 2, A. M., progress was reported on the bill. The Speaker took the Chair and there came up a quick succession of motions to adjourn on all which the Ayes and Nays were ordered by the minority. The motion to recommit to insert the Infirmaries—it being explained that it would return the bill to the Committee of the Whole, and require another night's session, was refused by the following vote:

AYES.—Messrs. Andrus, Carpenter, S. S. Childs, Cornelius Crocker, Duryea, Farnum, Filkins, Hubbell, Johnson, King, Scholefield, Shaw, Spencer, Smith, Snell, Suydam, Tomlinson, Van Cortlandt, Woodruff—20.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Bacheller, Bliss, Briggs, Brockway, Clark, Coburn, Coit, Collins, Conkling, Fuller, Godard, H. K. Graves, Green, Hall, Holmes, Holt, Laing, Littlejohn, Loomis, H. A. Lyon, L. R. Lyon, Mackin, Morris, Moulton, S. E. Palmer, Partin, Payne, Pendell, Pierce, Pond, Ranney, Rider, See, Shepard, Slocum, Stewart, C. Thomas, Thompson, Tuthill, Van Horn, Weaver, Wiggins, Wiley, Woodbury—46.

At 3 o'clock Mr. TUTHILL moved the previous question, which by the ayes and nays was ordered. And now there could be no adjournment, under the Speaker's ruling, and a reconsideration of the order for the previous question not having been asked in time, until the whole subject was disposed of. Almost instantly the hall apple-woman's stock in trade was exchanged for cash. Members made themselves as snug as possible in their seats—but if one assumed the attitude of a confessed sleeper he was called to order, and straightened up. Mr. POND's boots getting accidentally, as he snoozed, upon the desk, Mr. SPENCER moved to take them from the table and refer to the first Committee of the Whole—ruled out of order. Somebody set a fool's-cap on a sleeper's head, the Speaker rebuked the offender, but not by name. Now in quick succession the amendments moved in Committee of the Whole were offered, the ayes and nays taken, and voted down. The motion to insert the Infirmaries of New-York and Brooklyn in the appropriation bill was voted down, all the New-York and Kings County members voting to insert them.

The motion to amend the bill by increasing the amount appropriated to the Governor for house rent was voted down, all of the Democrats voting for the increase. The bill cuts down the items for clerk hire in most of the Departments of State—and the majority refused to amend in this respect. An amendment continuing the appropriation for State Prison Inspectors' traveling expenses as heretofore, was adopted—the only change permitted in the bill during the evening thus far. Motions to cut off the salaries of the State Palæcutologist—on which the merry speeches of the day aggregated some two hours probably, and of the Curator of the Cabinet, were voted down. With a single exception the ayes and nays were called on every amendment offered, and the absentees persistently called. Mr. C. S. SPENCER and Mr. MEEKS had for the most part alone of the Republicans risen with the Democrats for the Ayes and Nays. As they had appeared during the day as the special champions of the Hospitals, for their factiousness, and for detaining the House two hours, the majority determined to punish them. So Mr. MORRIS, of Yates, moved a reconsideration of the decided vote by which the Hospitals had been inserted in the bill. Though the New-York and Kings men voted unanimously No, the AYES had it, and, because two of their injudicious friends when fairly and repeatedly beaten, refused to let the House go on with its business, the Hospitals were cut off without a penny. While this vote was proceeding, the House was as still as if somebody were dying there. The mirth of the factious was dissipated, and a great many who had rather enjoyed it before, looked decidedly sorry. A motion to reconsider the appropriation to the Orphan Asylums was made in the same spirit as the last, but it failed. There were some score or more of amendments that had been offered in Committee of the Whole, and which were in order before the main question should be taken, but that Hospital vote had broken the wing of faction. All the honest amendments had been offered hours before. The main question being put, the bill was ordered to a third reading. Instantly at 4¾ A. M. the House adjourned.

At 8 o'clock A. M. the House reassembled and fell to work with good appetites, doing a good deal of business rapidly. The Brooklyn Water and Sewerage bills were recommitted to Cities and Villages to give the Opposition a hearing. The Brooklyn Academy of Music Incorporation act was read a third time and passed. It needs only the Governor's signature to be a law. The Brooklyn Mercantile Library bill—as the Senate had amended it, striking out the Assembly provisions that boys under 16 years should not vote, and that they must be three months members before voting, was repassed, and needs only the Governor's approval to be a law. The other business was mostly of a local character.

It is understood that when the Appropriation bill comes to its third reading, the majority will move its recommitment to insert the charitable appropriations precisely as last year, and that this will carry, being forthwith reported complete. So the great annual fight is over until the Senate set their hands at it.

The Senate had a vigorous debate and a good season over the Mandeville contested seat. On a motion on one of the dozen amendments moved to it, to fix the time for the final vote on this question, Mr. SPINOLA desired a few moments' time to reply to Mr. W. S. WHEELER, and a motion was made and carried to allow Mr. S. fifteen minutes. Mr. S. took the floor, and read the letter from the Albany correspondent of the NEW-YORK TIMES on the contested seat. He charged that the whip and spur were being used by a tyrannical majority to drive Senators to a party vote on this question—that the bargain entered into between Americans and Republicans in the Eleventh District must be carried out. He charged that the NEW-YORK TIMES was an oracle of the Republican Party, and the correspondent writing by authority, which announcement made from such a quarter on such an occasion encircled humble Glaucus's head with a halo of glory. He still speaks, however, to respectable people, even though poor and out of office. The contested seat question is to be settled—no mistake this time, for fixing it has cost the Senate a long session and a sharp fight—at 9¾ P. M., of Wednesday next.

The debate continued at considerable length on the motion to take the final vote in relation to Mr. MANDEVILLE'S seat on Wednesday evening, at 9 o'clock. ASSEMBLY....ALBANY, Friday, March 11.

The following is the continuation of the Assembly report from last night:

The adjournment of the Assembly did not take place until 5 o'clock this morning.

The debate on the Annual Appropriation bill was very spirited, and a resolute fight was made by Mr. C. S. SPENCER, DURYEA and others to secure the appropriations for the several charitable institutions of the State. The bill was thus opposed at every stage, amendment after amendment being proposed.

At 3 A. M. the Committee rose, but only to renew the fight in the House.

When the Speaker resumed the Chair every amendment offered in the Committee of the Whole was again proposed, and the ayes and noes demanded.

In the end the bill was ordered to a third reading, with the following material alterations: The sums of $22,500 for the New-York Hospital, and $30,000 for other Hospitals of the State, were both stricken out by a vote of 44 to 30.

On motion of Mr. MORRIS, of Yates, the sum of $10,000 for the Pilot Commissioners was stricken out, and the sum of $35,000 for the Orphan Asylums of the State inserted.

The State Prison Inspector's traveling fees were raised from $1,200 to $2,700 per annum.

The bill was then ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

This morning, Mr. MORRIS, from the Judiciary Committee, reported against amending the Assembly Apportionment act, by giving Broome County two and Livingston County one member.

Mr. BUMP, representative from Broome, opposed the adoption of the report, demanded a hearing for Broome in the House, and protested against the disposal of the question by the Standing Committee.

After debate, the report was referred to the Committee of the whole House for consideration.

The bill to repeal the act creating the office of City Judge of New-York was reported unfavorably, and the report agreed to.

Concurrent resolutions amending the Constitution so as to disfranchise persons guilty of infamous crimes or bribery were reported by the Special Committee and referred to the Committee of the Whole.

The Commissioners of Emigration reported to the House that they have never applied to the court to test the title of the Castle Garden property. The State has brought suit against the City, and the Commissioners, as tenants of the City, are made parties in defence of the suit now pending. The Commissioners have made arrangements to hold possession under the City title until the question of title is decided.

Mr. ST. JOHN introduced a resolution, asking the opinion of the Attorney-General whether the State is responsible for damages to contractors, when their contracts are suspended by the State or its officers.

The bill to incorporate the Brooklyn Academy of Music was passed.

To authorize the indictment of the Quarantine incendiaries in any county of the Second Judicial District.

The Registry Law bill, as the special order, was taken up and debated during the remainder of the session, and progress reported upon it by the Committee.

When the Speaker resumed the Chair, Mr. SHEPARD moved that the House disagree with the report of the Committee and order the bill to be engrossed for a third reading.

Mr. LOOMIS opposed the motion, and it was withdrawn.

The bill was then made the special order for tomorrow, at 11 o'clock.

Interesting from Hayti.

OFFICIAL PROGRAMME OF THE GEFFRARD ADMINISTRATION—PROJECTS OF IMPROVEMENT—STATE OF FINANCIAL MATTERS.

Advices from Port-au-Prince to Feb. 17 have come to hand. The financial condition of the new Republic engages the attention of the Government, which announces its intention to prepare a statement of the national debt, left behind it by the recent Empire, and to provide for its payment.

It has also issued a proclamation declaring its basis of reform. It follows:

"Haytiens! the financial condition of the country claims from the Government measures just but decisive. These measures will infringe upon many private interests. Those who enrich themselves by your labor, or by personal favor, will, without doubt, loudly protest; but the course of Government will not be checked by their discontent. It will march on firmly, and woe to those who attempt to fetter it.

The era of pillaging is past! Each functionary is henceforth responsible for his acts; this responsibility is not illusory; it extends from the chief magistrate and his ministers to the lowest employe.

The public funds will not hereafter be considered the property of a few, but will be administered with impartiality.

The Government has much to do, but it relies on the aid and good sense of the community to obtain the results which it proposes for the general benefit.

The army will be reduced, as in a time of peace. A law determining the duration of military service will be made, so that the Haytian soldier will be not more a slave, but a free citizen, who understands that he ought to devote some time to the service of his country and does so cheerfully.

Agriculture shall be encouraged, the honest and laborious citizen shall have all the protection of Government, while robbers and vagabonds shall be punished with all the rigor of the law. The Government will see that the police in both town and country is active, without being arbitrary. The Government, in short, will encourage religion, public instruction, arts and sciences, as much as the state of the finances will permit."

A number of young men of Hayti are to be sent by the Republic, at its expense, to Europe, to pursue various mechanical and professional studies.

The Courts are to be reopened immediately.

Later from Rio Janeiro.

THE ALLIANCE BETWEEN BRAZIL, URUGUAY AND THE ARGENTINE STATES—BRAZILIAN FLEET ORDERED TO THE RIVER PLATE—THE COFFEE MARKET.

By an arrival at Philadelphia we are placed in possession of our Rio files to Jan. 19.

The intelligence is of secondary moment.

On the 11th of January DON LUIS JOSE DE LA PENA, Minister Plenipotentiary of the Argentine Confederation, embarked on board the war steamer Paraense, which the Imperial Government had detailed to convey him to Parana.

The treaty which Sen. DE LA PENA, in conjunction with the Envoy of the Oriental States, concluded with the Government of Brazil, Jan. 2, was in general terms a restoration of the treaty of Aug. 27, 1828. The negotiators on the part of Brazil were Sen. PARANBOS and the Viscount of URUGUAY, and on the part of the Oriental States, Sen. D. ANDRES LAMAS. The treaty is represented as securing the assistance of Brazil and Uruguay in compelling the return of Buenos Ayres to the Argentine Union.

In accordance with the supposition of an immediate intervention in the affairs of the River Plate, the Brazilian squadron at Saint Catharine's had been ordered immediately to Montevideo. The division consists of two sloops-of-war, two brigs, a steamer, and a schooner. The vessels departed for their destination on the 12th of January.

The rains of the latter half of December had done serious damage in the neighborhood of Parabyba do Sul. The city was inundated, the streets for twelve days being passable only in boats.

The sales of coffee on the 17th of January reached 8,000 bags.

The shipments for the month, up to that day, amounted to 164,116 bags.

A commercial correspondent writes on the 17th:

"In consequence of a long-continuance of unseasonable weather for coffee, our supplies, of late, have been very limited and deteriorated: and, for want of assortment very little can be shipped until the rains cease. Our stock, to-day, is 25,000 sacks, and we quote good firsts 4$1700@4$1900; superiors 5$@5$200 per arroba.

Flour is exceedingly dull and low in price. Freights 40c.@60c.

The departures since the 5th of January have been: Jan. 6—Bark Moudamie, 5,000 sacks, Baltimore; schr. Coast Pilot, 3,400 Charleston. Jan. 7—Bark Archer, ballast, St. Thomas. Jan. 9—Brig Mary Mac Rae, ballast, St. Thomas. Jan. 10—Ship Brazil, ballast, New-Orleans; schooner F. Currie, 4,354 sacks, Baltimore; bark A. E. Grant, 5,400, New-York. Jan. 11—Bark Creole, 3,600, Baltimore. Jan. 12—Bark Leighton, 4,225, New-York; bark Roanoke, 4,400, New-York; barks Talamon and Annie Kimball, ballast, St. Thomas; bark Colonist, ballast, Savannah.

The bark Delegate cleared for New-Orleans.

Five vessels, it will be seen, have sailed hence, recently, in ballast."

GEN. AMPUDIA DECLARES FOR THE LIBERALS—MOVEMENTS OF MIRAMON—DEFENSIVE MEASURES OF JUAREZ—THE INSURRECTION AT TAMPICO.

By the arrival of the Quaker City at New-Orleans last week, we have later intelligence from Mexico. Another arrival at the same port gives us later and important from Tampico.

Gen. AMPUDIA, at Tulancingo, with 500 men under his command, had pronounced in favor of the Constitution of 1857.

The Liberal troops under DEGOLLADO have taken possession of San Luis Potosi and are endeavoring to concentrate the forces with the view to make an attack on the City of Mexico.

Gen. MIRAMON had collected a force, it is said, of 6,000, at Orizaba, to attack Vera Cruz. Great apprehensions are felt for the result, for JUAREZ, with his ill-disciplined and badly armed troops, is not in a condition to contend against such a force. If Vera Cruz should fall, in all probability Oaxaca, Tehuantepec, and even Acapulco, together with the other strongholds of the Liberal Party, would succumb, as our accounts from that portion of the Republic, (Feb. 15.) give us reason to believe that much dissatisfaction exists. The hopes of the Church Party are brightening, and great faith is placed in MIRAMON, who seems, from his recent success, to have become the soldier of Mexico, and to share the military fame of SANTA ANNA.

In the meantime such is the desire of JUAREZ to strengthen the defences of Vera Cruz that the troops from all the adjacent sea-ports have been withdrawn, leaving them entirely unprotected, and it is rumored that Gen. CORO, at the head of 1,000 men, was marching in the direction of the eastern provinces, with the view of exacting forced loans from the defenceless towns. As Minatitlan contains many American residents, and there is much property belonging to the Transit Company concentrated there, it seems an imperative duty of the United States Government to dispatch a vessel-of-war to the Coatzacoalcos, in order to protect the large interests and preserve intact the integrity and safety of the transit between the two oceans.

A correspondent of the New-Orleans Picayune writes from Tampico, Feb. 13:

"A large portion of the garrison of this city made an attempt last night to pronounce for the plan of Mexico—that of MIRAMON. The plot was disclosed to Gen. GARZA by a lady who had accidentally become acquainted with it. Thus advised beforehand, he was able to take precautionary measures to defeat it, and in this he was successful. The plot was an extensive one, and in it were involved all the leaders of the reactionary party. The preconcerted signal agreed upon for putting it in execution was the firing of a gun. The conspirators counted upon certain success, and already considered themselves in possession of the power of the City and State. In the meantime, however, GARZA, advised, as before said, of their movements, had called together his most trusted officers and friends and prepared to meet the emergency. And at the moment the signal gun was fired he suddenly pounced upon his enemies, and not only prevented the execution of the plot, but made sure of about twenty of the principal men engaged in it, who are now in prison.

Previously to this attempt at overturning his authority, GARZA was preparing to send five hundred men to Vera Cruz, to aid JUAREZ in the defence of that city against the attack of MIRAMON. It was this reason, in fact, which stimulated the reactionary party to the present movement. They not only desired to prevent, by every means in their power, assistance being sent to the Constitutionalists, but thought the occasion a good one for seizing upon the authority of the city and State themselves. But I am rejoiced that they failed in the attempt, and that thus we have escaped the miseries consequent upon another political overturn. Any Government is better than these miserable revolutions."

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 11.

New-Orleans papers of Saturday last are received. They contain the details of the news by the brig Minatitlan, from Tampico on the 26th ult.

The Tampico papers manifested considerable alarm as to the result of MIRAMON'S expedition, but they considered Vera Cruz in a most perfect state of defence.

More than 4,000 men, says the Prisma, can be concentrated there at a moment's notice in case of attack, without including the commands of LALAVE and IRIGO, or the army of Oajaca, numbering 1,000, now before Orizava. All counted, the Liberals have for the defence of the city about 6,000 available troops. On the other hand the Prisma thinks that not more than 1,000 men can be spared from the cities now held at the point of the bayonet by the reactionary party, and that MIRAMON will have to depend almost entirely upon the army with which he set out from the capital.

In the meantime the war is to be prosecuted with vigor all through the interior.

FALLING OF THE FLOOR OF A CHURCH—FOUR LIVES LOST.—The following particulars of the calamity of the 9th, at St. Mary's Church in Oswego, are given by the Palladium: "The Church was literally packed with people. The exercises of the evening had just commenced, or were about to commence, when about one-third of the floor, immediately in front of the altar, gave way from the immense weight, and fell to the basement, precipitating about one-third of the audience in an indiscriminate mass in the space below. As soon as the mass of people had left the Church, a number of men, together with Mr. GUARDET and the Redemptorist Priests, JOEL H. WARN and others, rushed to the relief of the unfortunate people who were lying dying, and even dead. Many women were taken out of the Church insensible, some with broken limbs, some dead. One man, LAWRENCE MURRAY, brother-in-law of LUKE RATTIGAN, member of the Oswego Guard, was taken out dead; also Mrs. MARY CARLIN and Mrs. BRIDGET LANGDON, who were conveyed to the house of R. H. MARTIN, Esq., opposite, where both soon expired. Another woman, Mrs. MARGARET HENNESSY, was taken to the residence of Mrs. KANE, where she also expired in a short time. It was found that a portion of the large cross-beam near the altar was very much decayed in the centre by dry rot, but to all appearances externally was perfectly sound. The beam broke off under the excessive weight, thus causing the disaster.

LAW REPORTS.

Trial of James Stephens for the Murder of His Wife by Poison—Stephens Purchases Arsenic, and Arsenic is Found in the Body.

FIFTH DAY.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

Before the Hon. Judge Roosevelt.

At the opening of the Court Miss Fanny Bell was recalled by the District-Attorney. She was asked whether she did not misunderstand the question put to her by Ex-Attorney-General Cushing, on Thursday, relative to the cause of her aunt's decease,—whether or not she wrote home to her father that her aunt died from intemperance. She said she had misunderstood the question, and wished to explain. Mr. Cushing objected to the course of the prosecution. They must not recall a witness when they had finished with that witness. Miss Bell was in the act of replying to the District-Attorney, when Mr. Ashmead entered the room. Immediately he saw her on the stand, almost before he could get his hat off, he commenced to remonstrate, "Now, if it please your Honor, is this to be allowed," &c. The Court decided that it was to be allowed, and the young lady deposed that she had entirely misunderstood the question. But this simple answer was not permitted to be given without altercation between counsel, during which the Court administered a rebuke to the counsel for the defence, and Mr. Cushing apologized. The next witness was then called.

Patrick Riley, examined by Mr. Shaffer—I live in East Seventeenth-street; I have not lived here two years yet; I came from County Cavan, Ireland; I knew the father of Mrs. Sophia Stephens; I did not know the defendant till I came here; the Bells were all a decent family, and had a good character; I saw Mrs. Stephens twice while she was sick; the first time I don't remember; the second time I saw her was the day before her death, or the day before that; it was either on Monday or Tuesday; she was lying in bed; it was about seven o'clock in the morning; there were a couple of females there; I did not know their names; Stephens was not there; she told me she was no better, and felt the same burning inwardly; I did not see her afterwards; I had seen her before her sickness; after her sickness she was altered; she was bloated up, with a red hue on her face.

Michael Flynn, examined by the District-Attorney—I am a druggist; I reside at No. 420 Second-avenue; I know the defendant Stephens; I knew Mrs. Stephens; I do not recollect when I last saw the prisoner Stephens, previous to her death; I sold Stephens something five weeks before her death; I sold him half an ounce of arsenic; I sold him half an ounce a week previous to that; the color of the arsenic was white; he was in the habit of coming into my place two or three times a week for some three years; I do not recollect of his being in my place from the time I sold him the last arsenic till I heard of his wife's death. [Envelope shown to witness—it was the envelope of the anonymous letter sent to Mr. Cardwell.] I wrote that address on that envelope, by order of James Stephens; he came into my store, in the month of June last, as near as I can recollect—the commencement of Summer, at any rate—and got me to write it; I handed it back to James Stephens, and he took it away.

Walter L. Sandford, examined by District-Attorney—I reside at No. 46 East Thirty-second-street; I am a Police officer I am acquainted with premises No. 166 East Twenty-seventh-street: I have visited the rooms in which the defendant lives; they are on the south side of Twenty-seventh-street; there are windows in the rear of the house, looking from his rooms into Twenty-sixth-street, on the premises of Mr. John Stevenson; yesterday I placed a piece of paper in the window in Stephens' bedroom, and went over to Stevenson's factory; I could see the paper very plain.

This witness was not cross-examined.

John Ward, examined by the District-Attorney—I reside at No. 474 Pearl-street; I am an undertaker: I know Edward D. Connery, the late Coroner; I visited Greenwood Cemetery with him last September; on the 23d; the two Miss Bells, George Rice, and another gentleman were there also; we disinterred the remains of Mrs. Stephens; I opened the coffin for the young ladies to recognize the features; they did so; I placed the coffin in the box and took it to Bellevue Hospital, where it was opened again for the ladies to recognize the corpse, after which it was given in charge to Governor Daly; I afterwards saw the coffin and a part of the body in the dead-house, about the 3d of October; I put it into a box, took it to Greenwood Cemetery, deposited it in the same grave, and have not seen it since; it was on the occasion of my taking it back that I saw it the second time; the corpse I saw at Bellevue Hospital was the same corpse I removed from the Cemetery; the face of the corpse appeared black.

Joanna Brandon, examined by the District-Attorney—I reside at No. 183 East Twenty-sixth-street; my husband's name is James Brandon; he works at Mr. Stevenson's coach manufactory; I knew the late Mrs. Stephens; I used to see her in the Twenty-seventh-street Church; I called upon her during her illness; it was nearly two weeks before she died; it was in the first stage of her illness; she was in her own sitting-room; she had been lying down, but was rather better; she was facing the windows; I observed she had a black eye; I saw her afterwards during her sickness; she was in bed; I did not then notice her black eye, because she was lying down and shaded; Mrs. Stephens complained of a burning sensation in her chest and throat, nausea and sickness of the stomach; she said the sensation was like a rolling ball of fire in her chest, and sometimes in her throat; and said that it felt as if she would feel better, if she could put her hand down her throat and pull it up; I was there the evening previous to her death, but did not see her; I saw her nieces on that occasion; I went into an entry bedroom; I saw no one else there; I generally saw Miss Fanny Bell and Mrs. Hannah when I went there; I think I saw Fanny Bell on every occasion I went there; previous to Mrs. Stephens' sickness, to all appearance, she was a hearty-looking woman; she was of a fair complexion.

Mrs. Brandon was not cross-examined.

Mary Pulman, examined by the District-Attorney—I reside at No. 49 East Twenty-fourth-street; my husband's name is John Pulman; he is in the wholesale dry-goods business; I know James Stephens; I knew Mrs. Stephens; I have known her as a member of the Twenty-seventh-street Methodist Church, for two or three years, and perhaps longer; I saw her during her illness three times; she was very sick at the stomach when I saw her, and said that was the case frequently, and could keep no food on her stomach; I first called on her during the last week of her life; I saw her twice afterwards; I saw her the night of her death; Mr. Pulman accompanied me; I recollect distinctly that one of the neices was there, but do not remember whether the other was; a young man named William Mills was there; I do not recollect any one else was there; I heard Mrs. Stephens breathing very heavily; I was in the adjoining room; I remarked to her niece that she should not be allowed to sleep in that way long at a time; that a person in her weak condition ought to be roused; I always understood from her that she was very much distressed and had a constant nausea of the stomach; she had just been vomiting when I went in on my first visit; I believe I did not see Mr. Stephens there at any of my visits; I never saw any medicine administered to her.

Cross-examined by Mr. Cushing—I did not notice if Mrs. Stephens had a black eye or not; I did not notice it when she was in her coffin.

Direct resumed—Mrs. Stephens was lying in bed when I saw her.

To Mr. Ashmead—I saw her in the coffin after her death.

Direct resumed—I only looked at her in the coffin for a moment.

Daniel R. Stewart, examined by Mr. Shaffer—I reside at No. 106 East Twenty-seventh-street; I am a butcher; I first lived on the first floor, and afterwards moved up stairs, where I reside now; I was acquainted with Mrs. Stephens; I do not recollect how long she was sick; I knew of her being sick a couple of weeks; I had lived in that house about a year and a half previous to her being sick; I used to see her every day; I always thought she was a pretty healthy woman; she had no occupation but take care of her house; I remember the time when she died; it was between two and three o'clock in the morning; I forget the day of the month; I did not visit in her room during her sickness.

Cross-examined by Mr. Cushing—I occupied precisely the suite of rooms below that Mr. Stephens did above; she never had a black eye that I know of; I saw her nearly every day; I always thought she and her husband were on good terms; I could hear any unusual noise in the rooms above, if my door was open; I have a wife and child.

Direct resumed—I was never in Mrs. Stephens' rooms before she died; my business required me to be away from home; I never took particular notice of her face; I used to see her in passing merely.

To Mr. Cushing—I saw her when she was laid out, and did not notice that she had a black eye; I think, when she was alive, if she had had a black eye, I should have observed it.

To Mr. Shaffer—I cannot say how long it was before her death that I last saw her.

Dr. James R. Wood, examined by Mr. Sedgwick—I reside at No. 2 Irving-place; I am a physician and surgeon; I was present at Bellevue Hospital in the presence of Dr. Doremus, Coroner Connery and some others; I made a post-mortem examination there, on Sept. 24, 1858; Dr. Doremus and his assistant, Dr. Zencker, Dr. Woodward, Dr. Gourley, the curator of the museum, and several of the assistants of the Hospital; I made a post-mortem examination of a female that I caused to be taken from a coffin, on the plate of which was inscribed "Sophia Stephens, died Sept. 23, 1857, aged 46 years;" the Misses Bell were not in the room; I caused the body to be removed from the coffin by an assistant in the Hospital; it was removed without dismemberment; I examined the anterior surface of the body, for the purpose of ascertaining its condition; I found the skin of a dirty yellow color, in a very remarkable state of preservation; it had not shrunk any, and was plump and full; the face, sides of the head, with the anterior portion of the skull, were in an advanced state of decomposition; then I made a posterior examination, by turning the body over; with the exception of the scalp, it presented the same appearances the anterior did; the scalp was decomposed; I then made a dissection of the anterior portion of the body, from the sternum to the pubis, in a medial line; this brought into view the anterior portion of the liver, the stomach, the colon and the omentum; the liver, stomach and colon were in a remarkable state of preservation; the stomach and omentum were well preserved, and loaded with fat; the other viscera of the abdomen were examined before I commenced to remove them; they were also apparently healthy and well preserved; I then proceeded to remove the viscera of the abdomen—first by applying a ligature round the cardiac orifice of the stomach, and another round the pyloric orifice; this was handed to Dr. Doremus, and placed in a vessel prepared for the purpose; I then removed a portion of the liver with the gall bladder; a portion of the intestines, which were also placed in a vessel prepared by Dr. Doremus; the intestines were examined and their internal lining were found in a remarkable state of preservation, and but little fluid contained in their cavity; the remaining portions of the intestines, the uteris and its appendages were given to Dr. Doremus for examination; the cavity of the peritoneum or belly contained nothing except two or three ounces of oily matter, which had percolated through the tissues, which were all loaded with fat; this examination was made without opening into the cavity of the thorax, which was next opened; we found the viscera therein contained wonderfully well preserved; the lungs and heart were remarkably well preserved; the other tissues with the pleura were perfectly dry; not a particle of moisture was discovered on the surface; I then proceeded to examine the head and face, to find if there was a bruise which was said to have existed at the time of death, but decomposition had so far advanced that it was impossible to note anything; the brain was in an advanced stage of decomposition, melting upon pressure of the hand or scalpel; a portion of it was given to Dr. Doremus; I examined the muscular tissues of the body; they had not lost their coloring matter and were still red; as well preserved as many bodies that I have seen in the dissecting rooms of country colleges; the shroud, the napkin placed about the nates and vulva, were also handed to Dr. Doremus; some cotton found in the mouth was also given to Dr. Doremus for examination; I examined the interior of the stomach at Dr. Doremus' house, after he had removed its contents; the mucous membrane was hard, much harder than natural; there was no redness of the stomach; the veins were large, as if they were congested; the contents of the stomach were unusually small; this smallness might be accounted for by the contents having been ejected before death, or from the patient not having taken any substance into the stomach for a long time before death; there was a peculiar odor from the body; not an odor from decomposition; I cannot account for it in any other way; I never smelt anything like it before.

The cross-examination of Dr. Wood was waived for the present. When called, he will be called as a witness in chief for the defence.

The next witness was Prof. R. Ogden Doremus. The wall of the Court-room, adjoining the judicial bench, was adorned with handsome diagrams, of large size, representing the retorts and other chemical apparatus used by the Professor, his coadjutors and assistants, in the work of detecting the poison, if there was any, in the body of Mrs. Stephens. The drawing was most complete; the furnaces, the tubes leading from one retort to another, everything, in short, connected with the investigation, which is conceded to have been one of the most scientific yet undertaken in the City, were elaborately depicted. Besides these, Professor Doremus had brought with him a large case filled with tubes, containing the arsenic found in the body, in its various forms.

The Professor occupied the stand nearly two hours. The examination was conducted by Mr. John Sedgwick, the learned assistant District-Attorney, who, to his other varied acquirements, adds great knowledge of chemistry. But Professor Doremus, using the professional wand, which is so familiar to the students in his classes, to illustrate the diagrams, rather delivered a lecture than underwent an examination. It would be most unjust to him to give a partial and garbled report of his admirable testimony. He explained the tests by which the presence of arsenic could be detected in a human body, narrated at very extensive length the method in which those tests were applied and the channel by which conclusions were reached. The result of his long and laborious investigation may be shortly summed up. He found from four to six grains of arsenic in the remains of the deceased woman, exhumed a year after death. This arsenic was discovered in the contents of the small and large intestines, throughout the viscera, the muscular and adipose tissues, in the skin and in the bones. At such a period after death much of the arsenic swallowed by a patient, would be absorbed, and the quantity found in the remains was not an exact test of the amount of arsenic taken. The quantity of arsenic sufficient to cause death varied in different persons, and under different circumstances. It was on report that a grain and a half had killed—Sir Benjamin Brodie was the authority for that. Two grains, three grains, according to circumstances, were sufficient to cause death. An analysis of two hundred cases of poisoning by arsenic, made by Dr. Lee, established his own conclusions on the subject of the symptoms produced by poisoning by arsenic, which were vomiting, pain in the pit of the stomach, described as a burning pain, a similar pain in the throat, nervousness, and prostration of the whole system, partial paralyzation, diarrhœa, swelling of parts of the body, and a peculiar anxious appearance of the countenance.

Dr. Doremus will be called by the defence as a chief witness.

Dr. Detmold was next examined as to the symptoms of poisoning by arsenic. He had been for many years familiar with such symptoms. They were vomiting, intense burning pain in the stomach, extending upwards and downwards, so as to make the whole belly intensely painful to the touch, extending to the throat and even to the mouth; unquenchable thirst, diarrhœa, the discharges being streaked with blood; an anxious appearance, a sunken eye, a brilliant, wild expression of the eye; excessive prostration of all the vital powers; pulse quick and feeble, limbs powerless and extremities numb, oftentimes convulsions of the limbs.

On the conclusion of Dr. Detmold's testimony, the Court adjourned till this morning. The interest of the trial is still on the increase, and more ladies were present yesterday than on any previous day.

The Hatch Divorce Case—Injunction Applied for Against Dr. Hatch.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM—March 11.

Before Justice Clerke.

Cora L. V. Hatch vs. Benjamin F. Hatch.—This is, as is well known, a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Hatch against her husband.

Mrs. Hatch has lately obtained an order to show cause why her husband should not be enjoined and restrained from interfering with or exercising any control over her person or movements; the order containing an injunction meantime. The order to show cause came on for argument this morning—Messrs. Mount and L. S. Chatfield for the plaintiff; Messrs. Ferris and Squires for the defendant.

The motion was argued upon the pleadings in the cause, and on a number of new affidavits. The pleadings have already been published; the following is the substance of them:

The complaint, after avering the marriage, &c., charges that, before the marriage of the parties, the defendant made false and fraudulent representations to the plaintiff as to his social position, business and prospects, his income, &c., &c., to induce her to marry him, and that, since the marriage, he has made no effort to do business for himself, but has depended on his wife's labors. The answer denies making these representations, except as to one or two which are true; and says that, by arrangement between them, defendant devoted himself to aiding in plaintiff's business of lecturing.

The complaint then charges that defendant has "confiscated" the proceeds of plaintiff's lectures; has refused to provide her with sufficient under-clothing; has compelled her to walk to and from her lectures in inclement weather; and has refused to supply her with suitable food. The answer sets up that the proceeds of the plaintiff's lectures belonged to the defendant; but shows that he expended the money thus: $150 to $200 for his own clothing; $1,400 for clothing and jewelry for plaintiff: $1,000 on a purchase of real property in Mrs. Hatch's name, giving his own note for the balance, $3,400; and $800 loaned to Professor Mapes. The other charges above-mentioned are wholly denied.

The complaint next alleges that defendant neglected to provide home, board or spending money for plaintiff; that his acquaintances were not such as were fit associates for her; and that he introduced her to improper persons, named. The answer avers that the plaintiff was well supplied with money; and while her business of lecturing made it necessary for them to board, and to some extent threw them necessarily into contact with good and bad characters, yet the defendant was able to and did introduce his wife to good society; naming Messrs. Mapes, Edmonds, Ludden, Taylor and others.

The complaint then charges (and this is the chief ground of asking the injunction now moved for) that on Nov. 13, 1858, defendant came to the house of Mr. Ludden, in Brooklyn, at about 6 in the evening, with a policeman and Dr. Folsom, with the purpose of carrying the plaintiff away by violence; that he seized her by both her hands and endeavored, by harsh and violent means, to compel her to go with him; that since then he has accosted her in the street and used harsh language to her; has threatened her with violence and excited fears of bodily injury—of being carried out of the State; and that in other ways and at other times defendant has treated her cruelly, and threatened her. In response to this charge the answer admits that the defendant tried to get possession of the plaintiff; but says that he believed her to be kept under espionage, and that those with whom she was residing were fomenting difficulty between defendant and his wife, while he desired to place her under the care of persons friendly to both, who would use their influence to induce her to live with him. He took hold of her hands and drew her towards him, but used no greater violence than necessary to obtain possession of her; and had no design to restrain her unlawfully. All the other charges of threats, abusive language, &c., are wholly denied.

For a second cause of action the complaint alleges that defendant's conduct has been such, in many particulars, as to render it unsafe and improper for the plaintiff to continue to cohabit with him—mentioning many instances, all which are denied by the answer.

The complaint then avers that, in consequence of the defendant's conduct in these respects, the parties entered into an agreement to arbitrate their differences before Dr. Wilson, Messrs. J. J. Mapes and J. W. Edmonds, and that these arbitrators awarded that there was good cause for a separation between the two, and that they should execute an agreement of separation, but that defendant refused to abide by the award. The answer admits the award, but avers that Messrs. Edmonds, Mapes and others proposed the arbitration to him as a means of settling the differences which prevented his wife from living harmoniously with him, and as a method of reconcilement between them, and that defendant entered into the agreement with that view, and that, in awarding a separation, the arbitrators exceeded their powers, and their award is void.

On the part of the plaintiff, in addition to the pleadings, affidavits of Prof. Jas. J. Mapes, D. A. D. Wilson, W. A. Anderson and the plaintiff herself were read, to corroborate the statements of the complaint. They contained no important facts additional to those indicated above, except that they gave the circumstances in detail. The defendant also introduced a lengthy affidavit of his own, denying or explaining the matters charged against him. The following abridgement of a portion of the affidavit shows his explanation of the cause of the difficulty:

Deponent further says, that the plaintiff claims to be, and is believed by a great many persons to be, a spiritual medium. She also claims, and such claims are believed by many, that while she is engaged in the delivery of lectures, she is in an unconscious state, and that what she says in such lectures is dictated by certain spirits who have, for the time, the complete control of her mind; and, also, while in the habit of delivering such lectures she is at times intervening their delivery in a partial magnetic or semi-trance state, in which her will is so much suspended that she is partially or wholly under the control of other persons, and, upon request, will permit acts to be done which she is unable to resist. That up to the time of his return from Chicago, as stated in his answer to the complaints, the plaintiff treated him with the warmest affection; that on his coming back she met him with open arms and expressed the utmost joy at his return; but that, within an hour afterwards her manner suddenly changed, and she informed him that she would not further live with him as his wife.

That from that time to the arbitration the health of plaintiff became in some degree impaired, and her conduct towards deponent so fitful and strange, that he was forced to believe her mind in some degree deranged, especially as to the moral sentiments; that for some five or six years past his attention has to a greater or less degree been engaged in the investigation of spiritualism, during which he has at times believed it might develope truths of great usefulness to mankind; that it was this subject that first brought him to be acquainted with and finally marry the plaintiff; and since his marriage with her, he has been encouraged by Judge Edmonds and other eminent spiritualists to have his wife continue her lectures on the assumption that hers was a very extraordinary case of spiritualistic development.

That from information derived from reliable sources, and from his observation, he is convinced that as a general rule spiritual mediums, so called, fall into a morbid and unsound condition of the moral sentiments, leading them more especially to a disregard of the marriage covenant; no less than seventy cases having occurred in the United States of the estrangement and separation of husbands and wives from this cause.

That he hoped and was encouraged to believe that his wife might develop a better phase of the phenomenon; that after the sudden and unaccountable change in her conduct he corresponded with Judge Edmonds, then absent, he being considered good authority on the subject, and received a letter, of which a copy is annexed, giving his opinion on the subject.

That after the same period, and whenever he was permitted to approach the plaintiff, he has tried to convince her that she was in danger of falling into the same state, and has endeavored to rescue her from it. And deponent verily believes that sundry persons have taken advantage of her unfortunate condition to promote a separation between plaintiff and defendant, some of whom wish to control the money to be realized from her lectures, and others wish to have possession of her person.

LETTER OF JUDGE EDMONDS.

LAKE GEORGE, August 20, 1858.

DEAR HATCH: I am very sorry, but not surprised to hear of Cora's indisposition.

It is the result of my observations and experience, that the mediums for mental manifestations cannot with safety be overworked.

The draft on the vital energies is very great, and unless properly regulated such mediumship is likely to be injurious.

Sometimes it affects the physical health as in the cases of Miss Harding and Miss Sweet; and sometimes the moral as in the case of Cora and some others.

Having regarded this as a truth, I have been very careful in that regard with Laura. I have watched closely her condition at times, and whenever I saw any signs of overworking, I have insisted on her stopping for a week or two at a time, and taking rest and recreation. I have then insisted upon an entire cessation during the warm weather. Hence it is I favored this rest of two month ins the country, and thus it is I have preserved her powers and condition unimpaired.

Last Summer my admonition to cease in May was neglected, and the importunity of friends yielded to instead. The evil consequences were soon manifest, and I know no exception to the rule.

The remedy in Cora's case is rest, time and recreation. She ought now for at least two months to spend her time in pleasant society, in agreeable scenery, and with an entire cessation of all spiritual influence. She will then recover a sound frame of mind.

I shall be in town on Monday next and will be glad to see you, and in conversation enter more into detail than I can do in the limits of a letter. Yours, &c.,

J. W. EDMONDS.

The motion papers being read, argument of counsel was heard up to the hour of adjournment; the counsel for the defendant being then speaking. The case will proceed to-morrow at 11 A. M.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—March 10

Before Judge Hall.

Henry Bulled, second mate of the ship Wild Pigeon, was put on trial charged with cruel and unusual punishment inflicted upon one Nelson, a seaman on board. The only witness against him was one John Brown, who testified that he was a seaman on the Wild Pigeon, which sailed from this port for Valparaiso on March 7, 1858; that the accused shipped as a boy, but was advanced after the ship got to sea, to the post of second mate; that when the ship was about three weeks at sea Nelson did not work to suit the first mate, and he ordered the accused to beat him, whereupon the accused did beat him with a rope for two hours, and three days afterwards Nelson died. On cross-examination he testified to another severe beating inflicted upon Nelson by the Captain and first mate the next day, and that they lashed a chest to his back and made him walk for about an hour, and that he fell down under the chest several times; that he was at work that afternoon, but never turned out after that.

The defendant Bulled was a mere boy, not 17 years old at the time. Nelson was a tall, large man. The ship was not here, and no other of the ship's company or officers were examined. The case was given to the Jury about 1 P. M.

MARCH 11.

The Jury in this case, after being out all night, came into Court this morning with a verdict of guilty, but recommending the prisoner to the mercy of the Court on account of his youth.

Judge HALL called Bulled before him and asked him if he had anything to say. He had nothing at first, but on being questioned, he said that he never struck Nelson at all; that the witness Brown was insolent to him one day, and by the mate's orders he struck Brown with a rope, whereupon Brown threatened to have revenge upon him; that he was 17 years old last November; shipped on the Wild Pigeon as a boy, but there were but two good hands on board and the captain made him second mate; that he had left the sea and was living now in Brooklyn, with his mother.

Judge HALL said he did not feel satisfied to dispose of the case in its present aspect, but should be inclined to suspend sentence until something was heard from the officers of the ship, if the prisoner could give bail in $500 that he would appear for sentence. He was accordingly remanded.

Mr. Ridgway appeared for the defence; for the prosecution, Mr. Dwight.

The Grand Jury brought in indictments this morning in the following cases:

The United States vs. John Brown and five others of the crew of the bark Zephyr—An indictment for a refusal to do duty on board the bark in Messina, Sicily.

The United States vs. Carmina Briagi.—An indictment for fraudulently impairing some gold half eagles.

SUPERIOR COURT—Trial Term.

Before Justice Pierrepont.

Thomas S. Nelson vs. Francis Vose et al.—This is a replevin suit to recover several thousand dollars' worth of railroad iron.

It appears that on the 3d of August, 1857, the defendant took by writ of claim and delivery 7,338 bars of railroad iron, weighing 1,300 tons, and worth $90,000, from the Chicago, St. Paul and Fon du Lac Railroad Company.

The plaintiffs allege that the Railroad Company had hypothecated the iron to them for $50,000 advanced.

The case is still on.

Before Justice Woodruff.

Beaver vs. Williams.—In this case the Jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff against the defendant Williams, and assess the value of the property at $1,800, and the damage for the detention at $603 80. The case was reported in the TIMES of Thursday, March 10.

Chester Lamb vs. The Mayor, &c.—This action is brought to recover the value of two horses drowned by falling off pier No. 30 North River. On May 25, 1857, the driver of a coach belonging to the plaintiff conveyed some passengers from the St. Nicholas Hotel to the steamboat Armenia, then lying at the foot of Chambers-street, pier No. 30 North River. This day the boat had on board a band of music, which happened to strike up just after this coach had unloaded. The horses became a little restless, and backed down the pier slowly, until coming to a place where the string-piece had been removed, the coach and horses rolled off into the water. The horses were lost, and the coach much injured.

The answer for the City is that the pier was then in the possession of the Pavonia Ferry Company and that the City was therefore free from liability.

Mr. Willard for plaintiff, and Mr. Busteed for defendant.

NOTE.—A very similar case (Martin vs. The Mayor, &c.,) was reported it will be remembered, in the TIMES of Tuesday, Feb. 15.

SPECIAL TERM.

Before Justice Hoffman.

John P. Comm vs. Wm. M. Wilmarth et al.—No injunction can be granted, except to restrain the defendants from parting with any watches or watch cases, part and parcel of those sold to the plaintiff.

Before Chief Justice Bosworth.

Ann Pierson vs. Louis Waefalaer.—Case settled.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Captain Couthony telegraphs from Orleans, Massachusetts, March 9, that the brig Monagos, of Boston, from St. Thomas, Feb. 19, in ballast, went ashore on Nauset Beach, at 3 P. M., in a thick gale from the eastward. The crew were saved with their instruments. Should the weather moderate, the spars and rigging will be saved. The hull is probably a total loss. The Monagos was dispatched by a Submarine Company of Boston, a year or two since, to recover the treasure of the sunken frigate San Pedro, on the coast of Venezuela, but met with poor success, recovering only a few thousand dollars, while the cost of the expedition was probably twenty times that amount.

A gentleman in New-Haven has in his possession a number of old bank bills, issued during the war of 1812 by the Phœnix Bank. One of these notes is couched in the following peculiar language: "The Phœnix Bank promises to receive of the bearer of this note, of one dollar, in payment for any debt due this bank, excepting for capital stock, or to pay the bearer in specie two years after the termination of the "Present war."

A letter from an officer of the Texan Boundary Commission, received in Washington, states that the work is progressing rapidly, notwithstanding the inclemency of the season. The weather is represented as having been extremely cold during January, the thermometer being sometimes as low as 45 degrees below freezing point. The party were all in good health.

The abandonment of Fort Brown (Texas) is censured by the Brownsville Flag, on the ground that the post was necessary to maintain peace on the border, and to protect the transit of treasure from Mexico. The Flag says: "This treasure is necessarily transported over an unsettled country, affording every inducement for the attack of the lawless."

A correspondent from Chivela, Tehuantepec, writes that the head-quarters of the Railroad Survey are already established at that place, and that the various corps of engineers had proceeded to their respective fields of labor. The entire party was well at last accounts.

A noted street-preacher, named Joseph Barker, has been arrested in Pittsburg for inciting a riot on Sunday. He was fined and locked up.

In the White divorce case at Pittsburg, the Jury have rendered a verdict for defendant (the husband)—denying Mrs. White's plea for divorce.

Fast-Day in Massachusetts, is appointed for Thursday, April 7.

DRY GOODS—The market exhibits no very important changes. The demand is restricted,—yet, with reduced supplies of really desirable fabrics available, prices are well supported. Domestic Cottons particularly, are held with much firmness; and the increasing value of the raw material tends to strengthen the confidence of holders. Domestic Woolens are attracting considerable attention. Fresh and popular goods bring remunerative prices. The current sales of other descriptions are, in the main, being effected at unsatisfactory rates. The movements in Foreign Productions have been moderate. Holders generally, however, have not manifested any unusual eagerness to sell. Hence, prices have not varied remarkably. The auction sales of Domestic and Foreign Goods, have not been very attractive, and the general results have been essentially the same, as in the instances of the public sales, previously noted. The value of the week's imports of Foreign Dry Goods, has been $2,364,670, against $1,092,568, same week last year. The amount marketed during the week was $2,415,708, against $1,431,445, same week in 1858. Of the week's total imports,—Woolens comprised $651,154; Cottons, $702,838; and Silks, $662,679. In each item, the entries direct for consumption, constituted the bulk of the total entries,—only a very limited amount having been warehoused.

DYEWOODS—Sales 150 tons St. Domingo Logwood, at $14 50 ₱ ton.

FISH—Dry Cod, Pickled Mackerel, and Pickled Herring are in request at uniform quotations. Other kinds remain as last noticed.

FOREIGN LIQUORS—The demand is fair and prices are quite firm, in some instances, favoring sellers.

FLOUR AND MEAL—The market exhibits rather more firmness to-day for desirable lots of State and Western Flour, for which a livelier inquiry exists. The regular trade demand is the most active. Holders appear to be less eager to sell, and generally refuse to make any important concessions to buyers. Sales have been reported of 13,500 bbls., within our revised range.

Southern Flour is in more active demand at full prices. Sales 4,500 bbls., in lots, at $6 25@$6 10 for mixed and straight brands, and $6 75@$8 75 for low fancy to choice extra brands, ₱ bbl. Canadian Flour is in light supply, and is in request, at $6 70@$7 50 for low to choice extra brands, ₱ bbl. Rye Flour is moderately inquired for, at $3 65@$4 25 for fine and superfine, ₱ bbl. Corn Meal attracts considerable attention, and is now generally quoted at $3 70@$3 80 for Jersey; $4 30 for Brandywine, (of which 130 bbls., have been sold,) ₱ bbl., and $19 50@$19 75 for the latter, in puncheons.

Mr. WM. G. CUTTING notices the week's business in the principal kinds of Breadstuffs, thus: "The market for State and Western Flour continued active and buoyant during the early part of the week, toward the close, however, less activity prevailed and for some descriptions prices were a trifle lower. The demand from the regular trade has been restricted, and speculators have evinced less disposition to operate. The transactions yesterday were to a fair extent, the market firm, with more of a speculative inquiry at the close. Southern Flour has been in fair request at a slight advance on the common grades, the better qualities remaining about the same. The buoyancy in the Wheat market noticed in last week's report continued on Wednesday, since which time it has been more quiet, without important change in prices. Prime Wheat has been sparingly offered, and choice parcels are quite scarce. The demand has been fair, both from the home trade and local millers. Yesterday's transactions were to a fair extent, with a firm and buoyant market. Corn has been more actively dealt in, and prices have advanced; the market, however, has been somewhat irregular, closing at 88c.@89c. for Western Mixed, and 87c.@92c. for Southern Yellow—the latter price for 5,000 bushels of choice for the South American market."

FRUIT—Sales by auction, to-day, 3,760 boxes Sicily Oranges, at $2@$2 50 and 1,240 boxes Sicily Lemons at $2@$2 35 ₱ box.

GRAIN—Wheat has been more sought after at improved prices, especially for desirable lots of White. Sales have been reported of 38,000 bushels, including fair to choice White Western, at $1 60@$1 75,—the latter an extreme rate; good to prime Red Western (Winter) at $1 48@$1 50; ordinary mixed Western (Winter) at $1 46; prime Red Long Island at $1 55; prime White Southern at $1 75; and Red Southern at $1 47@$1 50 ₱ bushel. Corn is in better request at advanced rates. Sales 29,000 bushels at 88c.@92c, for fair to choice new White and Yellow Southern; 87c.@90c. for new White and Yellow Jersey; and 88c. for old mixed Western, in store, ₱ bushel. Rye is scarce and wanted at 88c.@92c. ₱ bushel. Barley is plenty and heavy at from 65c.@85c. for poor to prime ₱ bushel. Some lots of California Barley are offered at 95c. ₱ bushel, without finding buyers. Oats are in request at uniform rates. Canada, 61c.@63c.; Western, 60c.@63c.; State, 56c.@58c.; Jersey and Pennsylvania, 51c.@55c.; Southern, 58c.@54c. ₱ bushel.

HAY—Sales 500 bales North River, at from 65c.@80c. ₱ 100 lbs.

HIDES—The market has been pretty active this week, and prices remain firm. Our receipts continue light. The principal sales have been: 4,200 California, to arrive, at 25c., 6 months; 2,000 Buenos Ayres, at 28¾c., 6 months; 5,000 Rio Grande, at 27½c., 6 and 8 months; 5,800 Truxillo, at 24½c., 6 months.

ALVA "BURNS TARTANS."—DURING THE whole of last year the tartan trade was in a very prosperous condition, and the present year, we are happy to state, has opened under very favorable auspices. While speaking on this subject, it would be omitting a duty not to notice two beautiful designs at present exhibited in the warehouse of Messrs. McArthur, Boss & Co, Glasgow, Scotland, got up expressly in honor of the Centenary birthday of Scotland's national minstrel. The one, a gorgeous specimen of coloring, has been denominated the "Highland Mary," and the other, which is more chaste, and partakes more of the refinement of Lowland taste, has received the inspiring name of "Robert Burns" Tartan. The designer, Mr. Ross, it will be remembered, received the prize at the late Celtic competition for the manufacture of a new tartan, a dress of which was presented to the Queen, and graciously received.—Glasgow Herald, Scotland.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The steamship North Briton, from Liverpool on the 23d of February, arrived at Portland yesterday morning. Later dates were received by our dispatches from the Arabia, at Halifax, which, however, left us without any of the news brought by the present arrival. This news is of interest. Mr. GLADSTONE was said to be on his way home from Corfu. In the House of Commons, Government had introduced a bill rendering the payment of church rates voluntary, rather than compulsory—a measure which was received with favor. M. BELLY left Southampton Feb. 17, with his advanced corps, to enter upon the preliminary work on the Nicaragua Canal. The rumor of Count WALEWSKI'S approaching resignation gained ground at Paris. A treaty between France and Russia was also spoken of. In Italy a treaty between the Duchess of PARMA and Austria had placed all the fortified places of the Duchy in possession of the latter. The Neapolitan prisoners sailed from Cadiz Feb. 19, in an American vessel bound to New-York.

By the arrival of the Quaker City at New-Orleans we have additional advices from Mexico. The Liberals were concentrating for the long promised attack upon the Capital, while MIRAMON was hastening towards Vera Cruz. In the order of his preparations for defending the latter city, President JUAREZ had drawn all the troops from the other seaports down the coast, and it was feared the Conservattives might seize the occasion to exact forced loans at such unprotected points. Gen. AMPUDIA had lately declared for the Constitution, carrying over to the Liberal cause his force of 500 men. At Tampico an attempt of the garrison to pronounce for MIRAMON was made Feb. 12, but was promptly repressed by GARZA.

Our files of papers from Rio Janeiro extend to Jan. 18. The most interesting item of news is the departure of the Argentine Minister, after the conclusion of the tripartite treaty between his Government and the Governments of Brazil and Uraguay—a treaty involving the cooperation of those three States in the task of enforcing the return of Buenos Ayres to the bosom of the Argentine Confederation. A Brazilian squadron had been ordered to the Plata.

Later intelligence from Hayti indicates the rapid organization of affairs under the new Republican forms. The Courts of law are to be at once reopened; the occupants of positions of trust are to be held to a rigid accountability; the law of military service is to be remodeled, so as to bear less oppressively upon the citizen; and the debts entailed upon the State, by the imperial régime, are to be ascertained and paid. The general aspect of affairs is regarded as encouraging.

A curious chapter in the secret history of the country is developed in a letter from Commodore STEWART to the President, delivered to the latter yesterday. According to this letter, the famous gun-boat navy of President JEFFERSON, which was so much ridiculed at the time of its construction, was intended for the seizure of Cuba, though ostensibly for the protection of the sea coast. One hundred and eighty of these boats were sent southward on this special Cuban service, but before Mr. JEFFERSON'S fillibustering plans could be properly perfected, the threatening condition of our relations with England rendered a postponement of the project necessary, and the opportunity never afterwards occurred for its revival.

In the State Senate yesterday, the bill to provide for the payment of the deficiency in the revenue of Brooklyn was passed. A bill was introduced to legalize the acts of the Common Council of this City in opening Duane and other streets. The matter of the alleged vacancy in Mr. MANDEVILLE'S District occupied attention for the rest of the day, and it was decided to take the final vote on Wednesday evening next. The Metropolitan Police bill was made the special order for Thursday next. The Assembly continued its Thursday night session until 5 o'clock yesterday morning, engaged in debating the General Appropriation bill. Various items of appropriation for charities, including $22,500 for the New-York Hospital, and $30,000 for other Hospitals, were stricken out in Committee, and the bill was finally ordered to a third reading. Yesterday an unfavorable report was made on the bill proposing to abolish the office of City Judge in this City. A communication was received from the Commissioners of Emigration, explaining their connection with the Castle Garden property. During the evening session the TAX bill was passed, as was also the bill relative to the punishment of the Quarantine incendiaries. The Registry Law bill was debated, and was made the special order for to-day.

The Commission appointed by the Legislature of Ohio to investigate the frauds upon the State Treasury have rendered a voluminous report. It sets forth the extent of the swindles perpetrated by BLISS, BRESLIN, and GIBSON, who were successively State Treasurers. It is shown that these parties played into each other's hands, with intent to defraud the State, which appears, by the report, to be a sufferer to the extent of about $600,000.

The Committee of the Pennsylvania Legislature to whom the subject was referred, have determined, as we learn by our dispatches from Harrisburg, to report in favor of granting a divorce to the wife of HORACE B. FRY.

The three principal lines of steamers which ply on the Hudson, viz.: The Peoples', the Troy, and Merchants' Lines are all in readiness to commence their trips to Albany and Troy, and a steamer from each of the Lines will probably go up the river during the coming week. The information as to the breaking up of the ice is encouraging.

A meeting of a portion of the Exhibitors and Inventors of the American Union was held last evening at the Cooper Institute, the ostensible object being to hear a report from the Treasurer upon the affairs of that defunct institution. Nearly the whole evening was spent in wrangling and recrimination, in which the opposing parties were scarcely restrained from coming to blows. The most ludicrous scenes were enacted, and it was 10 o'clock before Mr. TISDALE presented his report. Another meeting will be called.

The coal dealers of the City met last evening in Cooper Institute to protest against the passage of the ordinance now before the Common Council to prevent frauds on the sale of coal. It was determined to prepare a remonstrance.

A young man, named WILLIAM C. CARROLL, residing at No. 276 Houston-street, accidentally shot his mother yesterday, wounding her so severely that it is thought she cannot recover. He was preparing a pistol to shoot some rats, and, while putting on a percussion cap, the pistol was accidentally discharged. The ball entered his mother's back, near the right shoulder-blade, and passed out through the right breast. She is sixty-one years of age.

The trial of JAMES STEPHENS in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, for the murder of his wife, daily gains fresh accession of interest. Yesterday the druggist of whom he purchased an ounce of arsenic, on two occasions shortly before his wife's death, half an ounce at a time, was examined and fully identified him, having known him for three years. Dr. JAMES R. WOOD was examined as to the post mortem on the exhumed body of the deceased, and Professor DORREMUS made a long and elaborate deposition respecting the analysis of the remains, proving the existence of a large quantity of arsenic in them, after the lapse of a year. Dr. DETMOLD also gave important testimony.

Argument was had yesterday, in the Supreme Court, on the application of Mrs. CORA L. V. HATCH, for an injunction restraining her husband from making any attempt to interfere with or control her movements. A divorce suit is pending between the parties on her complaint, and she charges him with endeavors to abduct her by violence from the house of friends with whom she resides. Voluminous documentary proofs were put in on all the charges and counter-charges.

Judge RUSSELL seems to have an easy time in the Court of General Sessions. Only two trials have taken place during the week. There were no trials again yesterday, though there were a few pleas of guilty. MICHAEL BONES for an attempt at grand larceny, was sent to the State Prison for two years. CASPAR HOVER, FRANK MILLER and CHARLES DOSCHEN, for an attempt at burglary, were sentenced to the same prison for two years and six months. LEWIS BROGAN and JOHN GOOD for an attempt at burglary in the third degree went to the Penitentiary for one year.

Cotton continued in active request, yesterday with sales of 4,500 bales. Prices were firm. Flour, Wheat and Corn, as well as Pork, Teas and Naval Stores, were more sought after. Coffee, Sugars, Molasses and Rice were in demand. Tobacco was freely purchased. Other branches of trade were essentially unaltered.

The Presidential Question.

The late session of Congress has had an important effect upon the coming Presidential canvass. It has modified the calculations of both political parties and has seriously damaged the prospects of the Democracy. Nothing, indeed, could be more disastrous than the results of the session upon that section of the Democratic Party which is identified with Mr. BUCHANAN'S Administration. The President himself is as powerless and as friendless as was General PIERCE,—far more so, indeed, for whatever may have been his political infirmities, General PIERCE was a warm-hearted gentleman, true to his friends, and able to retain their respect and personal regard even when he could not gratify their political aspirations. Mr. BUCHANAN "set up for himself" in every respect, personal and political, when he became President. His oldest and most devoted friends were the men first discarded:—his most virulent and unscrupulous defamers became his confidants and most cherished counselors. And politically his chief anxiety seems to have been to mislead the party, do violence to its most cherished principles, forswear all his own professions, and dig an impassable gulf between the Democratic Party and the popular sympathy.

Extravagant expenditure, national bankruptcy, an attempt to saddle the country with an enormous debt, the break-down of the Postal service, and the pervading influence of corruption in the Executive Departments, are among the legacies bequeathed to the Democratic Party by the Administration during the late session of Congress. Its early faithlessness to the principle of popular sovereignty might possibly have lost something of its influence, but for the new issue raised by the special representatives of the President in the Senate during the Kansas debate just before the adjournment. It was then distinctly announced that the Democratic Party must take ground in favor of Congressional intervention for the protection of Slavery in the Territories. Mr. MASON, of Virginia, laid this down as imperative upon any man who expected the Charleston nomination. Mr. DOUGLAS said, what every man of common sense must know to be true, that not a single Northern, Western or Middle State can be carried upon such a platform as that. He might have gone further:—the Democratic Party cannot be kept together upon any such platform:—and if the National Convention at Charleston shall adopt it, the National Democracy will be reorganized upon the basis of Popular Sovereignty, and will outvote the "regulars" three to one in every Northern State. The insurrectionary movement of 1848 would be repeated under every possible advantage, and with a much greater chance of success.

Almost every prominent politician in Washington expects a nomination for the Presidency;—and this was the reason why the President was compelled to go into the shades of the Patent-office to find a successor for the late Postmaster-General. No politician would risk his popularity, as a Presidential candidate, by undertaking the duties of an office, the disbursements of which were to be largely curtailed. Mr. BUCHANAN is undoubtedly hoping for a renomination,—but not even the humblest of his office-holders considers it necessary to pretend to be for him. Senator HUNTER will be a very formidable candidate,—strong in ability, in statesmanlike equipoise of mind and character, and in the general conservatism of his opinions. His adhesion to the President has involved him in an ugly quarrel with Gov. WISE, which will damage him in Virginia, and, consequently, at Charleston. Secretary COBB and Vice-President BRECKINRIDGE are both in position to command strong support for the nomination, and half-a-dozen others are hoping to be considered available. A very influential movement has recently been started, principally in this City, in favor of Mr. GUTHRIE, Gen. PIERCE'S Secretary of the Treasury, whose reputation for integrity, it is thought, may be of especial service under existing circumstances.

It is not at all unlikely that the Charleston Convention may be in the hands of the Northern Democracy, and that they will feel it to be not only right, but absolutely necessary, to take the reins into their own hands,—reinstate the party upon the Popular Sovereignty platform of 1856, and nominate Senator DOUGLAS for the Presidency. If so, they would probably nominate Mr. STEPHENS, of Georgia, for Vice-President, and would consider themselves as thus quite prepared for any rebellious movement which the ultraists of a few Southern States might initiate. If the choice shall clearly be between a Northern and a Southern rebellion, it is very easy to see that the latter will be much the least disastrous to the party. If, on due consideration, the South should acquiesce in such a ticket, its prospects of success would be very formidable.

The Republicans have held the vantage ground throughout the session. They have been responsible for nothing and have yet been able to control almost everything. They have been saved from the consequences of their own ultraisms by the independence of some of their own number, who have saved them the odium of sacrificing the country to partisanship, as they have once or twice been in danger of doing, and the general tone of their leaders has been manly, statesmanlike and wise. Mr. SEWARD'S chances of the nomination have greatly improved. He stands so preëminently at the head of the party, and is so conspicuously designated as its leader by his talents, services and experience, that he cannot be set aside or passed by without an exhibition of cowardice and injustice which would greatly impair the morale of the party, and damage its prospects. He has enlisted the active and inveterate hostility of large classes of people, mainly in his own State, and has been distrusted as too radical on many of the fundamental questions of the day. But these misgivings have been softened very much within the past few years, and might yield entirely to the pressure of such a necessity of choosing as the coming canvass may present. It is to be borne in mind, also, that the conflicting claims which will follow his being passed by would involve difficulties quite as serious as could be created by his nomination. The question of availability will, to a very great extent control the action of the Republican Convention:—but the feeling is growing with the party that Mr. S. may be after all as available as any other candidate. The main difficulty will be to find a candidate from a Southern State for Vice-President on the same ticket;—and the Party will scarcely consent to go through another canvass, with both nominees from one section of the Union. It is perhaps not impossible that Mr. CRITTENDEN would accept the nomination for Vice-President, under Mr. SEWARD;—such a combination would have the elements of great popular strength.

If the Democrats are unwise enough to nominate a Southern man, or any man standing upon the new intervention-for-Slavery platform, Mr. SEWARD'S nomination may be considered certain, and his election highly probable. If they take DOUGLAS, or any man holding frankly and openly his position on the Slavery question, they may compel the Republicans to make some other selection or to take large risks in the canvass. It is not at all unlikely, however, that they may consider boldness the best policy. Valor is often the better part of discretion.

Affairs on the River Plate.

While Commissioner BOWLIN toils up the Parana to lay the choice of peace or war at the feet of President LOPEZ, a war-cloud of significant proportions is gathering behind him. On the 2d of January there was signed at Rio Janeiro a treaty of alliance offensive and defensive, the three Governments of Brazil, of Uruguay, and of the Argentine Confederation being the contractors, in which, it is asserted, by authorities most likely to be thoroughly informed, the forcible restoration of Buenos Ayres to the Argentine Union is to be accomplished. As circumstances collateral to and confirmatory of this view of the late negotiations, we have learned from recent arrivals of the rapid concentration of the Argentine forces upon the Buenos Ayrean frontier; of the urgent drafting, drilling, and equipment for war duty of the entire Oriental contingent; and of the dispatch of an additional squadron of Brazilian war vessels to the river Plate. These indications are not to be mistaken. Buenos Ayres is to have the alternative of resuming its place in the Confederation, or encountering a coalition against which it has no notable strength to oppose.

It will be remembered that the secession of Buenos Ayres from the Argentine league has never been rested upon constitutional grounds. It was simply an expression of personal hostility to the actual President of the Confederation, and was not even admitted to be a positive withdrawal from the Union, but a mere transient suspension of relations to be terminated upon the termination of URQUIZA'S official career. Buenos Ayres is, in fact, indisposed to share the revenues which the superior advantages of her seaport pour into her treasury, and, at the same time, detain from the interior States; and as URQUIZA insists upon such partition, the antagonism to that chieftain is implacable. The history of the Plata region has been controlled these half dozen years by this quarrel. By arms, by diplomacy, by legislation, the Argentine statesman has endeavored to recover the recusant commonwealth, and to divert its affluence into the federal coffers. Thus far the effort has been ineffectual. One of the latest attempts in this direction was the law of differential duties, which tendered the foreign merchant very important advantages as a reward for passing the port of Buenos Ayres, and proceeding directly to the Argentine ports; a law which took effect on the 1st of January last, and which has already inflicted serious damage upon the interests of Buenos Ayres. Still, neither the anticipation nor the realization of this evil, has cured the obstinacy of the outstanding province; and the new military coalition is an energetic measure to compel that submission, which no other less moderate policy can procure.

The accession of Brazil to this arrangement is easily accounted for. The appearance of the American fleet in the waters of the Plate opens a vista of mischief, which the Government of PEDRO II., with all its enlightenment, can only contemplate with dread. The policy of Brazil has long required the jealous exclusion of foreigners from the interior of the South American Continent. Hence the persistent embargo upon foreign navigation of the Amazon. Hence the veteran craving for the control of the valley of the Parana, exemplified long ago in its attempt to appropriate the Banda Oriental by virtue of arms, and more recently to secure the amicable subordination of the same Republic by virtue of diplomacy. Buenos Ayres has always been hostile to the Imperial pretensions; and to punish its opposition has been a treasured wish. With the sense of danger involved in the coming of the North Americans; in the possibility of important commercial concessions to be obtained by those enterprising people, opening to them the golden gates of what was once supposed to be the seat of the fabulous Dorado; and in the certainty that so formidable a display of naval and military strength must introduce a new and dangerous element into the riverine balance of power; the Brazilian Government has deemed it necessary to make some compensative demonstration, by way of neutralizing the North American influence. The tender of mediation between Commissioner BOWLIN and the Dictator of Paraguay was unquestionably the product of such apprehensions. Brazil is striking a bold blow for the maintenance and reinforcement of her influence with her Spanish-American neighbors; and in recognizing the intelligent administration of URQUIZA, and in directing her strength against that vexatious offender, Buenos Ayres, she is probably adopting the most effective measures. It remains to be seen what effect such measures will exert upon the prosperity of the American expedition.

A VERY REMARKABLE REVELATION.—The veteran Commodore STUART sent a letter to President BUCHANAN yesterday, as we learn from our Special Washington Correspondent, revealing the very remarkable fact that the flotilla of gunboats built by President JEFFERSON, for the ostensible purpose of guarding our line of sea-coast, were actually intended to be used in making a descent upon Cuba, with the purpose of conquering that long-coveted island and annexing it to the Union. More than a hundred of these gun-boats were sent south for this purpose, but the change which soon after occurred in the relations between the United States and Great Britain caused the project to be abandoned.

The precedent set by Mr. JEFFERSON, it is hinted, will be followed by Mr. BUCHANAN if our Minister at Madrid should fail in his attempts to effect a negotiation for the purchase of Cuba. Perhaps that was the use to which Mr. BUCHANAN intended to apply the thirty million appropriation, if the Congress had been weak enough to intrust him with it. How Commodore STEWART obtained his information it is not stated; but, as he was then in the Navy, it might have been confidentially imparted to him by Mr. JEFFERSON. It is very remarkable, however, that it should now be divulged for the first time after a lapse of fifty years.

Borrowing Trouble.

There is an old story of a highly-respectable lady who had acquired in early life an inveterate habit of looking under the bed before she "couched supine her beauties lily-white," in anxious expectation of finding there some monster in human form prepared to spoil the house and slay its inmates. After twenty years of conjugal peace she one night actually discovered the object of her long inquisition, and on communicating the horrible fact to her husband was by him congratulated on finding at last what she had been so long looking for. The panic and consequent crisis of 1857 must have been to our cotemporary of the Tribune what that crouching burglar was to this persevering dame.

The Tribune never will consent to be happy. It always will be ruined, and nobody shall save it. When clouds are in the sky the Tribune smiles, foreseeing a frightful tempest. When the blue heavens laugh with light the Tribune groans, portending secret volcanic throes, soon to break forth in universal dismay, disaster and destruction. Just at present the Tribune is bitterly exercised by the threatening prosperity which impends over the country. Things are brightening, the Tribune admits; but then this brightness is "precarious, if not delusive." And thereupon the Tribune marches up four legions of words, arranged under Roman numerals from I. to IV., for the express purpose of driving away the wicked traders who are swarming in upon us under the false impression that we have something to sell and that they have something to buy withal. That abominable vessel of wrath, credit, which has been the ark of our national success, is denounced afresh by the Tribune for "spreading its sails" and basely endeavoring to take advantage of the fair weather, in the face of the frightful backwardness which our people still display in taking hold upon those only pillows of salvation "the Sorghum and the Beet." We beg pardon of our readers for vexing them with this slight confusion of metaphors, but we are really only following the somewhat enthusiastical rhetoric of our much-prognosticating cotemporary.

The fact that Europe seems likely to withdraw from us those facilities for raising money abroad which have already involved so many of our best enterprises, in debts more discreditable than dangerous, seems to the terrified mind of the Tribune a particularly perilous circumstance in our present position. We have been well-nigh ruined by borrowing, says the Tribune, and therefore we shall be wholly ruined when borrowing becomes impossible. Could anything be plainer or more logical? Then, again, the Tribune is sure that we are near the "crack of doom," because "we scarcely hear of a new forge or factory as being erected," although all that actually exist are admitted to be in full operation with "a present active demand" for their products. Extravagant enterprise pushed beyond the wants of the country has lamed us dreadfully, and therefore enterprise exactly proportioned to the wants of the country will leave us not a leg to stand upon!

This is playing Smellfungus with a vengeance. We all know how fond our English cousins are of carrying umbrellas in a fine day for fear it might rain; and MONTAIGNE has somewhere quizzed the "fièvre et folie," the frantic foolishness of people who put on their fur coats at midsummer because it may freeze at Christmas; but we really think the present calamitous croaking of the Tribune is only to be paralleled by the lachrymose forethought of the young Irish lady who fell into tears before the kitchen fire with the thought that if she should ever by a happy chance be married, and become a mother, the child of her affections might casually tumble into the oven and be roasted alive.

Wharves and Wharfage.

The wharf-owners of this City and Brooklyn are urging the Legislature to pass a law doubling the rates of wharfage now established, and adding some new charges for the modern appliances used in loading and discharging cargoes. Their application is of course opposed with great vehemence by the ship-owners and shipping merchants of the City; and the question promises to take up not a little time and thought at Albany. It has sufficient public importance to deserve very grave and serious consideration, without reference to the wants and wishes of one or another class of those who are fighting their small battles over it in the lobby or on the floor of either House.

That the present condition of our wharves is deplorable in itself, disgraceful to the civilization of New-York, and really dangerous to our commerce, is unfortunately beyond a doubt. The Senate Committee at Albany, in their majority report, favor the petition of the wharf-owners, on the very reasonable ground that the present rates of income from that species of property are so low as to make it impossible for the owners to keep the slips and docks in proper repair. As compared with the wharfage revenues of other cities, those of the New-York wharf-owners are indeed shamefully out of proportion to the taxes which are levied upon them. The rates of wharfage remain what they were in 1801. The taxes are what fifty years of constant and vivacious advance have made them; nor can any man easily foretell what they will soon become. The additional rates now asked for would impose upon our producers and shippers an additional expense of some four hundred thousand dollars per annum in the whole—an increase of which the effect, when distributed over the vast surface of our commercial movements, must be so slight as to be scarcely perceptible. If we are to leave our wharves in the hands which now hold them, and retain our authority to regulate the incomes arising from their use, it is very plain that the measure now pressed upon the Legislature is one of simple and most scanty justice. If accompanied with proper provisions for securing the maintenance in good condition of the wharves and their adjuncts, it must produce decidedly beneficial results to all parties concerned, and save to the shippers and producers, in the form of increased accommodations and greater security for their property, much more than it will take from them in the shape of dues to the owners of wharves.

But the occasion is timely for asking whether our whole wharf system is not really most illogical and antiquated; inconsistent alike with the principles of sound law and the practical requirements of commerce?

Our wharf-owners are not holders in fee simple, and upon this basis alone, we suppose, rests the claim of the State to decide what rents they shall receive for the conveniences they furnish to commerce. Is that basis sound and sufficient? or do we not need a thorough revision of our laws on this subject? The wharves of a city like New-York are, to all intents and purposes, streets along the water. There is no more reason for leaving the ownership of our wharves, with all its advantages and all its burdens, in the possession of private individuals, than for vesting the control of Broadway or Union-place in a few gentlemen, with the right of exacting tolls, to be fixed by law, for the use thereof. If it be said that our wharves are in the nature of warehouses, then it is difficult to see what better right the State has to fix the rental of the one than to fix the rental of the other.

The theory and practice of wharf-ownership among us is indeed a last remnant of the ancient turnpike absurdity. One of two things it becomes us to do: either to leave wharf-owners perfectly free to make their own bargains with those who wish the use of their property, or to make just compensation to those who hold that species of property, and take the whole of it, with its regulations, its repairs, and all its responsibilities, into the keeping of the Commonwealth or of the City.

The Post and Mr. Sickles.

The Evening Post is becoming Pharisaical in its malignity. It reads the editor of the Philadelpaia Press the following very complacent and impressive lesson on the perils that environ the man who dares to say a word for a friend in trouble:

THE PHILADELPHIA PRESS.—This journal, which has hitherto maintained a high and respectable character, has entered upon a systematic defence of the character and career of Mr. DANIEL E. SICKLES. It is probable that the Editor of it is ignorant of what he has undertaken; if he is, he ought to be warned by some prudent friend of the dangerous declivity on which he stands; but if he is not, it will be necessary to characterize his efforts as they deserve. Mr. SICKLES, unfortunately, is well known in this community, and, as one journalist, at least, has already had reason to feel, it is not a wise thing to become his apologist or champion.

The Post's menaces may possibly have terror out of town:—but we trust the Press will not attach any undue importance to the fearful example of the "journalist" thus held up as an awful warning. The Post has been trying with laudable industry for the last week to cool its wounds by just such small puffs of itself as this. Like the Duke of BEDFORD, whom Junius impaled, it sits down "infamous and contented:"—but it fails to impress the public at large with any marked sense of its own comfort. It may be very happy,—but it don't act as if it were.

Mr. SICKLES is in prison—his home a ruin, his family scattered, his future blighted, himself awaiting trial for his life. An enemy of ordinary impulses would naturally suspend his hatred in such circumstances, and leave to the law and to "society" the coveted luxury of revenge. The Post is not sufficiently philosophical for so slow a gratification of its malice. It eagerly seizes the occasion for venting its hate, embittered instead of softened by the misfortunes of its object, and now descends to the imbecile baseness of menacing those who will not imitate its cowardly injustice. Its pompous threats are too ridiculous to disturb any sensible man's digestion; but the impulse thet prompts them is not therefore the less contemptible.

We have no possible motive for defending Mr. SICKLES—not even that of political sympathy or of personal and social intimacy—from anything that his bitterest enemy may say—except that which springs from a sense of justice and fair-play; but this has impelled us more than once to protest, in the name of public decency, against the brutal defamations in which the Post has steadily indulged since his killing of his wife's seducer. The statements of that journal concerning the personal character and social position of Mr. SICKLES rest, so far as the public has yet been informed, entirely upon its own irresponsible authority. If the evidence of our senses is worth anything, we know its assertion that he has long been "excluded from respectable society in New-York" to be scandalously false; and if it were proper to use private names in any public connection we could mention scores of gentlemen conspicuous for position, character and public services, in whose homes Mr. SICKLES has been a welcome guest. And we never yet met the man who could say, as of his own knowledge, that since his assumption of the duties of married life Mr. SICKLES had been guilty of any of the sins which the Post so freely lays to his charge. The statement that in his conversation he is accustomed to boast of his profligacy, we believe to be especially and maliciously false. Mr. SICKLES is a man of habitually cold temperament, fastidiously polite in his manners, a martinet in the proprieties of social intercourse, and far too much absorbed in his projects of political ambition to have either inclination or leisure for the pursuits of a profligate. For the last six or eight years there has not been a harder-working man in this City than Mr. SICKLES, and it would be a miracle to find such a man devoted to the passions and pleasures to which the Post represents him as being surrendered. The Post knows perfectly well that men upon whose standing it dare not cast any imputation, are not ashamed to confess themselves the intimate friends of Mr. SICKLES, and to assert for him of their own knowledge a character exactly the opposite of that which the Post assigns him.

If the Post finds special pleasure in venting upon Mr. SICKLES, during his imprisonment and in his affliction, the accumulated wrath of long and virulent political differences, it will probably continue to indulge itself in that luxury. Whether it does or does not, has now become a matter of very little consequence to anybody but itself. It is quite welcome to this self-indulgence, but it cannot be permitted to go further, and fling foolish threats of its frightful displeasure at people who neither share its private resentments, sympathize with its prurient tastes, nor accept its cold-blooded code of political warfare.

THE WEEKLY PRESS.—The Saturday Press has a striking poem this week by STODDARD, besides a variety of sharp, spicy and telling literary matter. The Press is the ablest of the literary weeklies—and almost the only one which possesses any very salient peculiarities of character and tone. It is a little too crochety, thinks (or talks) a trifle too much of its own merits, and wastes some valuable space by filling it with heavy matter. But what is left, after these deductions, is exceedingly good.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

MEETING OF COAL-DEALERS.—There was a large and excited gathering of coal-dealers last evening in Room No. 23, Cooper Institute, to protest against the passage of the ordinance to prevent frauds in the sale of coal. S. S. WARD, Esq., was appointed Chairman, and GEO. C. FARRAR, Secretary. Several gentlemen made earnest speeches, affirming that the proposed action of the Common Council was unconstitutional. They might as well undertake, they said, to make flour-dealers carry around scales to weigh each barrel they sold, as to try to make coal-dealers weigh each ton they delivered at the door of the buyer. Others were highly indignant at the insult put upon them by supposing they were dishonest. Mr. MOULTON was in favor of applying lynch law to the rascals who wanted to enforce such an ordinance. For one he would not lower his dignity enough to remonstrate against the passage of the law. After it was passed, the coal-dealers, he thought, should band together and protect anyone of their number who was fined for violating it. Mr. ANDREAS indorsed Mr. MOULTON'S ideas, and said he would fight the law until the d—l came. Mr. PHILLIPS said that the resolution was sent in to the Aldermen last evening, and that had it not been for the efforts of Alderman ADAMS it would have been immediately passed. Mr. P. further said that unless two of the Aldermen, whose names he gave, could be "influenced," the ordinance would be adopted at the next meeting. As this fact was announced there were low whispers of "what's the price, PHILLIPS?" When Mr. P. had resumed his seat a gentleman asked him what he meant by "influenced," whether he intended to say "bought?" He replied that he spoke as dealers generally do, and meant "influenced" honestly. Further than that, Alderman ADAMS had suggested that the dealers should each one carry around a pair of steelyards with his cart, and leave it optional with the purchaser whether he would weigh the coal or not. This, he said, would satisfy the statute to the letter. Mr. OAKLEY moved that a Committee of three be appointed to prepare a remonstrance. Mr. MOULTON thought it advisable to protest against the ordinance as insufficient. He denounced the Common Council as "knaves"—the majority of them at least. The motion to prepare a protest was then put and carried. Messrs. OAKLEY, MARSH and MANN were appointed a Committee to prepare it, and a recess of fifteen minutes was taken, to give them an opportunity of getting it ready for immediate signing. Mr. PHILLIPS stated, as the gentlemen were leaving the room, that the Mayor had told him he would never sign such a law as that proposed—because, in his opinion, the Common Council might as well pass an ordinance obliging every milkman to drive his cows to the doors of his customers, and milk them there, in order to satisfy each one that he was giving him pure milk. After the recess the Committee submitted their remonstrance, which, after consideration, was adopted.

PREPARATIONS FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—The Delegates of the various Hibernian Societies met at No. 42 Prince-street, last evening, to complete the arrangements for the celebration of the natal day of Ireland's patron saint. Mr. HUGH O'REILLY was in the chair, and Mr. JAS. O'CONNOR FARR acted as Secretary. The names of the Marshals of the different associations which propose to join in the celebration of the day were announced. The following Societies will constitute the procession: The Ancient Order of Hibernians of New-York City, the Emerald Guard, the Sarsfield Guard, the Independent Guard, the Sons of '98, the Deignan Guard, the Father Matthew T. A. B. Society, the Benevolent Society of United Sons of Erin, the Kings County Volunteers, the Hibernian Benevolent Society, the Irish American Benevolent Society, the Longshoreman's Union Benevolent Society, the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Long Island, the Quarrymen's Union Protective Society, the St. James R. C. T. A. B. Society, the Old Guard, the Barry Benevolent Society, and the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Melrose and Morrisania. The line will be formed in the morning with the right resting on East Broadway and Grand-street, and the procession will march through East Broadway and Chatham-street to the Park, where it will be reviewed by the Mayor and Common Council, thence through Broadway, Fourteenth-street, Seventh-avenue, Twenty-third-street, and Broadway again to Union-square, where after passing around the statue of WASHINGTON, it will be disbanded. It is expected that the turn-out will be unusually large.

MEETING OF THE SANITARY ASSOCIATION.—The Sanitary Association continues its weekly meetings at No. 23 Cooper Institute. Thursday evening Gen. FRED E. MATHER presided. On motion of Dr. GRISCOM, it was resolved to appoint a Committee of five to represent the Association at the proposed meeting in April of the United States Sanitary and Quarantine Association. A discussion, chiefly upon the condition of tenant-houses, followed. Dr. J. P. FITCH thought that the filthy state of many of these places had great influence on the general sanitary condition of the City. Dr. GRISCOM concurred with Dr. FITCH. He said, moreover, that a census taken by the Police showed that there were 287,000 people in these houses. Notwithstanding this fact, their unhealthiness is more due to want of clean linen that to their being overcrowded, as many of the hotels contain larger numbers, in proportion to their size, than these houses do. He suggested that it would be well to urge the necessity of the class of people who occupy these buildings residing out of the City to a greater extent. The time occupied in going to and fro is of course an objection, but the increased facilities for travel are removing this obstacle. Dr. REMSEN called attention to the necessity of guarding against adulterations in food. While thinking of causes so apparent which operate prejudicially to health, we are apt to forget others which are comparatively hidden. Finally Messrs. FITCH, ROE and HALLIDAY were appointed a committee to inquire into the general condition of tenant houses in the City, and the Association adjourned.

PRIZE-FIGHTS IMPENDING.—According to the sporting papers there are more prize-fights to come off during the next few months. HEENAN, "the Benicia Boy," has returned from his Southern trip and feels in so good trim that he thinks himself qualified to meet any one on either side of the water. TOM SAYERS, the English champion, it is said, has too many fights on hand now to accept more challenges at present, so HEENAN is willing to meet any one who is ready to stand up for "John Bull." As he cannot spend the necessary years in England to vindicate his claim to the champion's belt, should he be successful in getting possession of it, he will be satisfied with being victor in the fight. He is ready to stake any sum from $2 500, and his friends are ready to back him. JOHN MASSY, the renowned champion of the "light weights" arrived here a few days since in the packet ship Southampton. As his friends say, his only object is to give exhibitions to the "fancy." Since 1842 he has been frequently in the ring, his last match being with BILL HAYES in June, 1853, when the stakes were divided after fifty-one rounds had been fought in one hour and fifty-two minutes. Every one knows what these characters mean, by declaring that their intentions are peaceful, and from present appearances, it is highly probable that there will soon be occasion for testing the efficacy of the law against prize-fighting.

AN AGED WOMAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BY HER SON.—Word was brought to the Seventeenth Ward Station-house at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon that a young man named WM. C. CARROLL had shot his mother at her residence No. 276 Houston-street. Captain HARTT and Officer MCCONNELL repaired to the house, where they found Mrs. CARROLL, 61 years of age, who had been shot with a single-barreled pistol in the hands of her son. The ball struck behind the right shoulder blade, and passed through the right breast, inflicting a wound which it is thought will prove fatal. Capt. HARTT arrested the young man, who is a commercial traveler for a house down town, and he expressed the profoundest sorrow for the event, and said he was about shooting some rats, and was putting on a percussion cap when the pistol accidentally exploded. Coroner JACKMAN was summoned, and took MRS. CARROLL'S ante-mortem statement. As it was evident the shooting was an accident, young CARROLL was released.

INTERESTING TO LOVERS OF SANDWICHES.—Yesterday morning, Dr. SIGISMUND WATERMAN, a police-surgeon, while walking through Bayard-street, came upon a man named MICHAEL CONWAY, who had a hand-cart loaded with hams, which were obviously unfit for food. MICHAEL, in compliance with Dr. W.'s urgent invitation, made a call on the Mayor, to whom he stated that he bought the hams for 2½ cents per pound, and that he designed selling the fat to the tallow chandlers and the bones to the button manufacturers. The Mayor ordered him to see whether he could find a market for his hams, directing Officer MCLEOD to take charge of them in the meantime.

FIRE IN HUDSON-STREET AND RESCUE OF CHILDREN.—About 6½ o'clock, last evening, a fire occurred in the dwelling-house, No. 361 Hudson-street. It appears that there was a leakage of gas in an upper room, and one of the family entering with a light, an explosion followed which smashed the windows and set fire to the premises. The firemen extinguished the flames. Damage about $100; fully ins should leaving the house when the last one of the young ladies of the family. By way of apology for the intrusion, she remarked that "she was looking for her friend, Mrs. REED, who lived in that neighborhood, and that Mrs. R. had told her to come right up stairs without ringing the bell." The young lady replied that Mrs. REED did not live there, and supposing that it was a mistake, interposed no obstacle to the lady's exit, which she accomplished as speedily as due regard to dignity would allow.

THE GOULDY TRAGEDY.—MR. FRANCIS GOULDY, who, with the other members of his household, came so near being murdered in October last by his son FRANCIS, has nearly recovered from his injuries. His face is still under partial paralysis from the effects of his wounds, but he is able to walk about with the aid of crutches. On Sunday last he attended the Methodist Church in Thirty-fourth-street, of which he is a member, for the first time. His physicians say, however, that he will never recover his former vigorous health. About a month ago, Mrs. GOULDY, who was enciente at the time of the tragedy, gave birth to a daughter, and she has now entirely recovered from her confinement. All the other members of the family, except the servant-girl, JOANNA MURPHY, who died at the City Hospital, have entirely recovered.

THE MORPHY TESTIMONIAL.—The Committee of the New-York Chess Club have raised over six hundred dollars with which to purchase the proposed testimonial for PAUL MORPHY. They desire to procure, as originally suggested, a set of gold and silver chessmen, a medal commemorative of MORPHY's European triumphs, and an elegant gold watch, which is to be made expressly for him by the American Watch Company. One thousand dollars more is needed to accomplish this object. Contributions may be sent to JAMES THOMPSON, Treasurer of the New-York Chess Club.

HUMAN REMAINS FOUND BURIED IN DUANE STREET.—Yesterday afternoon, some workmen, while excavating in Duane-street, near Church, found a coffin containing a human skeleton. The body is believed to have been interred fifty years ago. There was no mark or inscription on the coffin indicating the name of the deceased. Additional mystery envelops the case from the fact of their never having been a public burial place in that vicinity. The remains were placed in a new coffin and sent to Potter's Field for interment.

DEATH FROM A FLUID LAMP EXPLOSION.—A German woman, named CATHARINE LEVIN GER, residing at No. 231 Centre-street, was severely burned by an explosion of a fluid lamp, on Thursday evening. She was removed to the New-York Hospital, where she died yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock. The Coroner will hold an inquest this morning.

CHILDREN FOR THE WEST.—Monday the Directors of the Juvenile Asylum send out another company of children to homes which have been provided in the West. For several months past they have been receiving instruction in that institution. To-morrow afternoon there will be a Sunday School meeting in the Rev. Dr. ADAMS' Church, in which they will take part.

THE ARSON IN CHATHAM-STREET.—HENRY KAHAN more popularly known by the name of "Cheap John," who was arrested a few days ago on a charge of setting fire to his clothing store No. 133 Chatham-street, has had a true bill found against him by the Grand Jury. He stands committed for trial. Bail has been refused.

Coroner's Inquests.

SUICIDE BY DROWNING.—An officer of the Eighth Ward discovered at 1 o'clock yesterday morning a bonnet and shawl lying on pier No. 42, North River. Thinking that these articles of apparel might belong to some female who had just jumped into the river, he procured some grappling irons and soon recovered the body of a woman, who was subsequently identified as Mrs. ANN BUTLER, of No. 62 Beach-street. An inquest was held yesterday, and a verdict of suicide rendered. The deceased was married, but was unhappy in her domestic relations. She had twice before attempted suicide.

RUN OVER BY A FIRE-ENGINE.—An inquest was held yesterday at the City Hospital, upon the body of JAMES N. BUTTERLY, the young man who was run over and killed by Engine No. 23, while going to the fire in White-street on Tnursday evening. The evidence showed that the occurrence was accidental, and a verdict to that effect was rendered. The deceased was nineteen years old, and a native of this City.

FATAL FALL BROM A BALCONY.—WM. H. RAPELYE, a child six years old, yesterday fell from the balcony of his parents' residence, No. 679 Sixth-avenue, and was instantly killed. Coroner GAMBLE held an inquest, and a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Correction.

NEW-YORK, Friday, March 11, 1859.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A notice has lately appeared in your valuable paper stating that the steamer Marion when ashore on Oyster Shoal, had been got off by WENDELL MASSEY's camels. This statement, Sir, is not correct; the contrivance used to float the Marion are the floating ariels, an invention for which I have obtained letters patent for the United States, England and France, which I am now securing in several other countries. WENDELL has got hold of the apparatus, though in the care of the Sheriff, an injunction having been made by one to prevent its use, pending a suit now before the Court. These ariels were used to float the steamboat Empire State when last year ashore on Long Island Sound. By inserting this you will do justice, and oblige, yours respectfully,

JOHN P. JAUDA.

My friend, if you have regard for your life or your scalp, do not fail to get one or more of these invaluable weapons before starting on your journey. Buy for yourself, and advise your friends to do the same. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Extract—page 122.
SHE CALLS ME FATHER.
She calls me "Father!"—though my ear
That thrilling name shall never hear,
Yet to my heart affection brings
The sound in sweet imaginings.
I feel its gushing music roll
The stream of rapture on my soul;
And when she starts to welcome me,
And when she totters to my knee,
And when she climbs it to embrace
My bosom for a hiding-place,
And when she nestling there reclines,
And with her arms my neck entwines,
And when her lips of roses seek
To press their sweetness on my cheek,
Or when, upon my careful breast,
I lull her to her cherub rest,
The heart to which I hold my dove
Swells with unutterable love.

COUNTRY RESIDENCES.

A CHOICE PROPERTY FOR SALE.—THE estate occupying the commanding promontory at the head of Highland Bay, just above West Point, on the Hudson—a most lordly domain, known by the traditionary name Minabar, is now for sale. It has been thus described in one of Mr. Willis' letters from Idlewild: "This elevated point of land is at the junction of the Moodna River, with the Hudson, and was once a magnificent Terrace Island, connected with the Highlands now by the causeway of the estate. It consists of about 115 acres; the terrace lawn, on which stands the dwelling, being a superbly-wooded table-land of 30 acres, 120 feet above the water-level. The mouth of the Moodna River divides it from Idlewild. Its river front on the Hudson is very nearly a mile, with a water grant to the Channel. Its front slope is covered with grand forest trees, and under them are the fortifications built there by Washington. It might be divided into three noble estates, as the separate building sites are very favorable. Those who are on the look-out for a home of the most lordly isolation and unsurpassed beauty of surroundings, will do well to give it a call. The drive to it from Newburg (3 miles) is very fine." Those who visit it with a view to see the premises should take at least half a day for the excursion. For particulars apply to HOMER MORGAN, No. 3 Metropolitan Bank, Pine-st., or to P. A. FOR NASSAU, N. P., AND H

...the near prospect of a resumption of navigation ...the Hudson River, following the breaking up of ...ice, has given considerable activity to the prepara... ...for business by all the principal lines of river ...mers. The ice between Troy and Albany has ...ened. At Albany the River receded slowly ...day, and in the evening it was a little below ...

...below Dourod's Point the ice remained ... quite rotten, requiring only a warm quiet night ... rain, to break it up. The steamer North America, ...from New-York, reached Rondout on Thursday, but ...ered considerable damage to her wheels by the ice. ...e River is clear from New-York to Newburg, and much broken for a considerable distance above.

The Merchants' Line, consisting of the Knickerbocker and Hero, will start as soon as the ice will permit, and will probably be running within a week. They have been overhauled and painted preparatory to the Spring business. The People's Line, consisting of the New World, Captain St. John, and Isaac Newton, Captain Peck, have been thoroughly refitted and painted. These boats will be placed on the route to Albany as soon as the ice is clear, and one of them, it is thought, may possibly go up on Monday. There will probably be no change in the fare from last season—$1 to Albany. The fare to Buffalo has been reduced to $8. The Troy Line, the Francis Skiddy and Hendrik Hudson, are also in readiness to commence their trips, and the Skiddy will probably make her first trip on Tuesday. She will continue to run alone until the ice is entirely clear, when the H. Hudson will go on and complete the line. Their evenings of departure will be: The Skiddy on Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday nights; the H. Hudson on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. The Skiddy has had a new tier of staterooms added and put in thorough order. Fare to Albany and Troy $1. The New-York and Albany Propeller Line began to receive freight yesterday, and will start at the first opportunity.

The steamboats running to intermediate points on the river are also preparing for active business, as well as the various passenger barges to Poughkeepsie and other places. Rosekrans, Gaylord & Co.'s line make their first trip to Poughkeepsie on Friday evening, leaving at 5 o'clock P. M. The fare is seventy-five cents, and three shillings for a supper provided on board. Passengers enjoy a comfortable night's repose, and arrive up early the next morning. They will run three boats, each of which will accommodate about one hundred and twenty passengers.

The steamboat Catskill will start with one of the barges of that line to-day, if it is deemed prudent to make the attempt. The different lines to Newark have only been interrupted for three weeks during the Winter, and Johnson's line has been running since the 1st of February. They have one steamboat—the Jamaica—and two freight barges, which are towed. They make one trip daily. Stephens, Condit & Co.'s line run the steamboat J. C. Heartt, towing and carrying freight; the other—the Chicopee—carries passengers. She begins her trips on the 1st of April.

The American Union of Inventors and Exhibitors.

EXCITING TIMES—THE LIE GIVEN—TAMMANY OUTDONE.

The American Union of Inventors and Exhibiters, which for several months had a gorgeous banner suspended across Broadway in the neighborhood of Prince street, is approaching dissolution, and it dies hard. The articles once on exhibition are gone; and as they have nothing else to show, the exhibitors made a display of themselves last evening in one of the rooms of Cooper Institute. At a meeting of several gentlemen, claiming to be a majority of the Board of Managers of the institution, held at the room of Wm. H. Rodgers, No. 16 Amity-place, W. S. Tisdale, Treasurer, J. L. Riker, Director, Aug. H. Wheeler, Secretary, and Jas. D. Whelpley, Recording Secretary, were "required and demanded" to give "just and true statements" of certain accounts comprised in seventeen specifications. These accounts related principally to cash received and expended, and the individuals above named were "demanded" to hand in their answer at a meeting called for last evening, to be held in Cooper Institute.

The meeting was organized by the appointment of W. H. Rodgers, Chairman, and Frank Dibbens, Secretary. A motion was made to adopt the paper containing the specifications above referred to, that the officers mentioned might be satisfied that it was the will of the majority of the inventors that they should submit their report. Pending the decision of this motion Mr. Tisdale rose to explain. He stated that he had received a note from W. H. Rodgers informing him that the meeting had been called and that the officers were ordered to present their account. Mr. R. said moreover that J. Lloyd seconded the demand.

Mr. Tisdale said he had learned from Gen. Lloyd, that he did not second the motion, so there was evidently a lie somewhere. Gen. L., he knew, could not lie; Mr. Rodgers, he believed, could.

No sooner had Mr. Tisdale got these words out of his mouth than an indescribably ludicrous scene followed. The Irish, German and American inventors present vented their anger each in their peculiar way. Yells of "Order," "Order," broke out all over the room. A German, with gray beard sticking from his chin at an angle of forty-five degrees, and hair to correspond falling over his shoulders, jumped from his seat, and ran back and forth like a hen fearful of losing one of her brood. Another on the other side of the room played the part of a game-cock, ruffling his feathers very majestically. A resolution was offered requesting Mr. Tisdale to leave the room. An excited debate followed.

Mr. Riker attempted to give some reason why Mr. Tisdale should not leave the room. If he went, he would take the report with him, and the object of the meeting would be defeated. He was proceeding to discuss the questions before the meeting, when the shrieks for order broke out more wildly than ever.

The Chair—Mr. Riker, will you please take your seat?

Mr. Riker—When I am obliged to. If Mr. Tisdale leaves the room you will lose your report. You can't compel a man to do what he won't do. I came here to speak, and I won't be gagged. I will be—

Chair—Please take your seat.

A Voice—No man respects the meeting who doesn't respect the Chair.

Mr. Riker—At the request of the Chair, I will for the present yield the floor.

The Chair—You will not yield it—you must give it up.

General Lloyd was proceeding to enforce the necessity of moderation, when he was interrupted by Professor Salomon.

Professor S., (laboring under a great excitement)—You are not to the order—you don't speak about the question.

General Lloyd—I move as an amendment to the motion to put Mr. Tisdale out of—to request him to leave the room—that he be asked for his report.

Professor Salomon—It is not right. It may be good to fish in muddy water, but I will see to the bottom in clear water. We have requested them to be so kind as to give us a written report. Before this I had mine cut and dried. [Cries of "Order, Order."] I have to do this. You have substituted this thing and I will treat it so. (crumpling the paper which he held in his hand excitedly.) The confusion kept growing worse and worse, until Gen. Lloyd took the chair to give Mr. Rodgers an opportunity to speak. He said he thought it better that Mr. Tisdale should remain in the room.

Mr. Tisdale then, after making numerous efforts, managed to read a report which set forth that the total receipts of the Union from the exhibition were $2,766 94; all of this had been expended. The present liabilities of the concern are about $3,600, $2,090 of the liabilities have been cancelled by the return of articles on exhibition.

The confusion broke out more violently than ever on the question as to whether Mr. Tisdale should leave his report with the Secretary of the meeting. This he refused to do, as he did not recognize its power, it having been illegally called.

Prof. Salomon began to speak on this question.

Mr. Tisdale (the younger, the former ticket agent, brother of the Treasurer)—Shut up your head.

Prof. S. did not heed this polite injunction, but insisted on being heard. Mr. Tisdale broke out with a prolonged "Bah!" and Prof. S. replied with a like ejaculation, each shrieking louder with every repetition. Finally, a German exhibitor, by Prof. Salomon's side, cried out to Mr. Tisdale, shaking his fist threateningly, "You stole the candy from my tree in the Fair." Mr. Tisdale made a spring at the speaker, and the German put for the door. Mr. Tisdale headed him off, and insisted on the offensive expression being retracted. The German apologized, by saying he did "not speak English good," and Mr. Tisdale was appeased. Meantime the hubbub which for the last five minutes seemed to be in danger of becoming a free fight, was partially appeased, and, after the appointment of a Committee of three to call a meeting next week, an adjournment was moved, and, for the fifth or sixth time during the evening, carried.

OBITUARY.

An Italian refugee, Joachimo Biffi, died recently in England, aged 37. At the commencement of the Italian struggle in 1848 he abandoned the pen for the musket, and joined a corps of volunteers in Lombardy. When Austrian supremacy was restored, Biffi proceeded to Venice, and took part in the heroic efforts of the Venetians. When, betrayed and abandoned, the Republicans exiled themselves, Biffi fled to England. Subsequently he took refuge in Jersey. He was one of those who were expelled from this island with Victor Hugo.

The oldest graduate of Yale, the Rev. Gad Newell, long Pastor of the Congregational Church in Nelson, N. H., died at that place Feb. 26, aged 96. He graduated in the class of 1786, seventy-three years ago. By his death Mr. Joshua Dewey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., of the class of 1787, becomes the oldest graduate. He is 93 years old. Next to him ranks the Rev. Daniel Waldo, of the class of 1788, now residing in Syracuse.

Dr. James S. Peacocke, a writer well known in the South, died recently at Memphis. He is chiefly known through his connection with the New-Orleans Press. At the time of his death, Dr. Peacocke held an appointment to one of the Central American States, from the General Government, and was making preparations to remove.

Police Reports.

Bogus Canvassers for a Business Directory.—Three young men, giving their names as Chas. Dunbar, Wm. Young and Chas. Van Valkenburgh, were yesterday arrested on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. They were ostensively canvassing the lower part of the City to secure advertisements of merchants and other business men for the next issue of "Wilson's Business Directory." They fixed the terms of advertising at an unprecedentedly low figure, and demanded cash payments in advance. They proved to be excellent canvassers, and their business was becoming quite brisk when Mr. Wilson heard of their operations. As he had not negotiated with them to do this kind of work for him, he decided to try to put a stop to their proceedings. Officers Farley and Eustace, of the Detective Police, conducted the trio before Justice Welsh. A merchant in Vesey-street testified to having made an advance payment to them for a promised advertisement, and exhibited a receipt bearing the name "C. H. Wilson." On being asked why they had used the name of Wilson, Van Valkenburgh said that he employed it to keep creditors from pursuing him unpleasantly. Dunbar protested that individually he had acted honestly, and that their intention was to publish a rival Directory to that of Mr. Wilson. He said he had been formerly engaged upon the Commercial Gazette, and challenged a scrutiny into his antecedent history. The Magistrate decided that it had not been proved that the young men did not intend to fulfill their bargains with the merchants who had trusted their statements, and until such failure was shown he said that he could not hold them to account. The complaint of swindling was accordingly dismissed.

A "Nice Young Man" Arrested.—About three weeks since Detective Wilson was called on to investigate an alleged robbery of two watches at the boarding-house of a gentleman named Seely, on the corner of Bleecker and Sullivan streets. A young Cuban, named Fernando Martenas, claimed to have lost one of the watches. No clue could be obtained to the robber, and the matter rested until yesterday, when officer Wilson received a telegraphic dispatch from Mr. Seely, dated at a farm of his at Wellsboro', Tioga Co., N. Y., stating that Martenas had been sojourning there, and had just left for New-York City, taking with him a lot of silver spoons, jewelry, &c., worth in all about $200. The detective immediately repaired to the New-York and Erie Railroad depôt, and late yesterday afternoon nabbed Martenas just as he was stepping off the cars. In his possession was a valise, which was found to contain all the alleged stolen property. There were also found in the valise several locks of ladies' hair tied up in various colored ribbons, and a batch of love letters, proving from their tenor that the young man was a perfect Don Juan. The officer consigned him to a cell at the Head-quarters of Police.

An Escaped Pickpocket Recaptured.—Last September, during the Atlantic Telegraph Celebration, an Albany merchant was robbed in that city of $600 by three pickpockets named John Armitage, Charles Norden and Charles Russ alias Williams. The three men were arrested, and while being conveyed to prison a few days afterwards, Russ knocked down the officer who had him in custody, and escaped to this City. His confederates were tried and sentenced to the State Prison, where they are now serving out their sentences. Within a few days the Detective Police broke up a notorious panel den at No. 41 White-street, which was set on fire on Thursday night by one of the girls, and it leaked out yesterday that the escaped Russ had been the proprietor of the den. After searching for him he was met in Elm-street by Detective Slowey, yesterday afternoon, and locked up to await the coming of some of the Albany officers, who were notified of his arrest.

Robbing a Shipmate.—James Selt, a native of Hindoostan, Joseph Perry and Frederick N. Peck, are sailors, and recently arrived in New-York by the same vessel. The Hindoo had $50 in gold coin, deposited in a leathern belt worn around his body which his unscrupulous shipmates resolved to obtain possession of. Decoying Selt into a house in Oak-street, one knocked him down, and, clapping his hands over his mouth, held him, while the other obtained his money. Having secured the treasure, the robbers fled, but an alarm was instantly given, which resulted in the subsequent arrest of Perry. The prisoner was committed by Justice Connolly, and the Police are looking for his confederate.

GAYETTY'S MEDICATED PAPER.

The proprietors of Gayetty's Medicated Paper call attention to the following, and present it as a specimen of many similar documents they are constantly receiving. As their article of papar is calculated as well for the healthy as for the sick, and is not a quack medicine, they have refrained from using any testimonials, but the annexed is urged before the public by friendly opinion, and is, we believe, true in every particular:

New-York, Wednesday, March 10, 1858.

Joseph C. Gayetty, Esq.:

Dear Sir: About a month ago I obtained a sample of your Medicated Paper, (so called by you) and for three weeks used nothing else. Well, Sir, I now declare to you and the world, (if you choose to publish it,) that whereas I have been for years afflicted with piles, I am now freed, and many are the remedies that at intervals I used, yet when exertion was necessary to accomplish my business I suffered; but now I can walk fifteen miles a day, and without the appearance, or feeling the complaint. I am sure that nothing else has driven away the complaint, for my habits have not in any degree been altered, and I am indeed glad, grateful and astonished at the simple use of your (I must call it) valuable and indispensable Medicated Paper.

Respectfully yours,
Wm. Corbiere, No. 148 Avenue A.

Friday, March 11—P. M.

The tone of dealings on the Stock Exchange to-day was quite irregular. The State Stocks were all strong, and the prices for Virginias, North Carolinas, Tennessees and Missouris higher than yesterday. The new Federal Loan without being active was held with firmness, and the only sale this afternoon was at 103¾ ℔ cent. On the Share List the firmness of yesterday was fully supported on New-York Central, New-York and Erie, Pacific Mail, and Hudson River, but on the Western Roads it was lost, and a severe hammering process this afternoon was partially successful on Galena, Rock Island, Michigan Central, Southern Preferred, and Toledo. The Bull feature of the day was the firmness and scarcity of New-York Central, and the Bear the disposition to sell and the weakness of Galena and Chicago, which yesterday displayed more than ordinary stiffness. The former brought on the Street as much as 80½@80¾ ℔ cent. cash, to fill the deliveries of the day. The latter sold down to 69½ ℔ cent. The course of the market for Reading was quite irregular, 49½ ℔ cent. in the forenoon, 48⅜ at the close of the limited list of the Second Board. The closing sales of Toledo were down to 26½ ℔ cent.; of Michigan Central to 52 ℔ cent.; of Southern Guaranteed which brought 48 in the morning, to 47½@47⅜ ℔ cent. Illinois Central Shares and bonds were steady. Pacific Mail advanced to 77 ℔ cent. this afternoon; the cash stock not abundant and the impression growing stronger that the opposition has either spent its force, so far as its influence on the stock is concerned, or that it is likely to be accommodated or compromised by the time a second steamer of the Vanderbilt line is appointed to sail. At the close, Virginia Sixes were 98⅜; Tennessees, 91@91½; Missouris, 85⅛@85⅜; New-York Central, 80⅜; Reading, 48⅝@48⅜; Panama, 117@117½; Galena, 69½; Rock Island, 60¼@60⅜; Illinois Central Bonds, 90 bid, shares 69, and Erie 11 ℔ cent. The market closing as it had ranged during the day, firm on the State and Dividend shares and dull on the Western stocks.

In Money affairs the day has been remarkably quiet. The movement has not been active at Bank or at the Government Office. The Discount rates range 5 to 7 ℔ cent., according to date, and the preference of lenders for particular bills, and 4@5 ℔ cent. for loans on demand or at short date or notice. The Stock Brokers are carrying but a limited amount of the securities ordinarily dealt in at the Board, and the bulk of the loans, at call, or on short notice, is on Government Stock. One of the large Banks is understood to have taken about $700,000 in this way, and others have advanced smaller sums upon the same stock, in the absence of a sufficient offering of prime short bills. The bankers in the Foreign business are holding their own Exchange on London firm at 109¾ ℔ cent. and f.5.12½ on Paris, and are buying commercial bills, principally against Cotton at 109@109⅜ ℔ cent. The transactions at the Sub-Treasury are light, Customs, $79,000; disbursements, $31,996; balance this afternoon, $8,628,782. The closing of the Executive offices at Washington for three days, incident to the death and funeral of the late Postmaster-General, has made the disbursing drafts, this week, lighter than usual. We understand that the Secretary of the Treasury in consequence of his liberal balance at New-York, and the indisposition of the holders of the Treasury Bills due next week to present them for reimbursement, is not likely, at present, to exercise his authority to reissue any part of the original $20,000,000, under the late act of Congress. We find that the following sums of the issues of 1858 fall due as awarded at New-York and other points:

March.		May.
15	$400 000	11	$200,000
16	765,000	12	1,060,000
17	750,500	13	1.350.000
18	784.500	14	500.000
19	718.500	15	193,000
20	360,000	17	10,000
22	25 000	18	75,000
24	190 000	22	1,100,000
31	100 000	24	1,710,000
		25	220,000
Total, N. Y	$4.093 500	Total, N. Y	$6,418,000
Other points	906,500	Other points	2,582,000
Total	5,000,000	Total	$9,000,000

From these sums must be deducted a partial redemption through the Custom-house, in Bills paid in for Duties, say about 5 ℔ cent. of the whole amount.

The following is a statement of the earnings of the New-York Central Railroad, for the month of January and February, 1859, compared with its earnings for the corresponding month of the previous year, sent to us by the Treasurer of the Company.

January.		February.
Years.	Earnings.	Years.	Earnings.
1859	$382,308 49	1859	$373,224 53
1858	430,375 86	1858	390,430 67
Decrease	$48,067 37	Decrease	$18,206 14

We understand that the receipts of the Terre Haute and Alton Road for February, 1859, are:

Passengers	$26,376 98
Freight	34,449 74
Mail	1,837 49
Miscellaneous	1 056 26
Total	$63,720 47
Against February, 1858	52.327 72
Increase in 1859 of	$11,392 75

The completion of the Hannibal and St. Joseph Road and the successful working of the Pacific Road, main stem, virtually relieves the State of Missouri of ten millions of her Public Debt. To the first-named of these Roads $3,000,000 of State 6 ℔ cents were loaned, to the ast $7,000,000. The interest and sinking fund are cared for by both Companies and their ability to meet these engagements is now placed beyond reasonable question. The February earnings of the Pacific Company are $49,000 against $28,000 same month last year. The Hannibal Road is under responsible Boston management, and the Road itself a success far beyond the first mortgage lien of the State for $3,000,000. Between the two full one-half of the present outstanding Debt o the State of Missouri is placed on a footing indef pendent of the direct taxation of the people.

The public are warned to be on the look out for new counterfeit Fives on the Easton Bank of Pennsylvania. The imitation is excellent. The paper of the counterfeit is somewhat lighter and thinner, and across the dark ground, underneath the 5s, on the four corners of the bill, it has only one black line. The genuine has two. This is about the only noticeable difference.

We find the following note in regard to bogus sales of Stocks by auction in an afternoon paper. Our own correspondent on the subject a few days ago referred very pointedly to the same abuse, which if not immediately corrected, we shall feel at liberty to omit all reports of Stock Sales by the auctioneer named:

An evening paper yesterday, reporting sales of stocks and bonds made at the Merchants' Exchange, says:

The following sales of stocks and bonds were made at auction this day:

By A. H. Nicolay.

$3.000 N. Y. and Harlem R. R. 2d mort., int. add... 90
4,000 Hancock County (Ill.) 8s, interest added.... 55
4,000 Marietta and Cincinnati Railroad 8s, flat..... 10,

(Among others.)

Now, Sir, I was present at this sale, and know that the bonds were not sold, but passed by the auctioneer. The practice of inserting false quotations I consider a downright imposition upon the public, and one that should not be tolerated by the Press. By inserting this you will oblige A BUYER OF BONDS.
